Jet Crash Stirs Row Over Fire Equipment

Investigators Launch Probe Of Air Tragedy

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A dispute boiled up Wednesday over fire-fighting equipment at Denver's airport when a $5 million jet airliner crash-landed Tuesday, burst into flame and killed 17 persons.

More than 100 persons—including the crew of seven—escaped from the plane. It was a DC8 operated by United Air Lines. Officials said 122 were aboard.

The victims included 16 passengers and a civil engineer working at the airport, Henry C. Blom of Denver. The plane careened into his truck as it skidded wildly down a runway at 120 miles an hour.

More than 50 investigators, including Najeeb Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, and Robert T. Murphy, vice chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, began investigating the cause of the accident.

Safety Manager, Mayor Disagree

Denver's manager of safety, John M. Schooley, said three fire trucks were lined up at the east end of the runway at Stapleton Airfield when the plane came in and more would have been there if United Air Lines had asked for it.

He told a reporter, however, "We just do not have adequate equipment for these new aircraft."

An opposite view was taken by Mayor Dick Batterton. "We have adequate equipment available to meet emergency situations and we feel that every organization involved did an outstanding job in averting a more tragic sitiation," he said.

Fire Chief Allie Feldman said that only a standby call was made—similar to 188 others this year—before the actual crash-landing.

Some witnesses said it seemed there was delay in getting fire-fighting equipment into operation, but Mayor Batterton said the trucks were pouring water on the fire within 45 seconds after the plane came to rest.

"Long Time," Witness Says

Lt. George Agusto of the fire department said the flames were being fought within 30 seconds after the plane halted.

An Omaha advertising executive who happened to be with friends watching the landing, Milton Reynolds, said, "It seemed a long time before fire-fighting equipment reached the plane" and that people were jumping from the craft before the trucks arrived.

"Quicker fire fighting could have resulted in saving more lives," said Lt. John H. Gelston, a passenger. He is attached to the Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs.

"They didn't get any water on the burning plane for at least five minutes after it crashed," reported Earl Darling of Aurora, Colo., a United Air Lines mechanic who used a fire extinguisher at the scene.

Lightning Bolt Kills Eight In Barn Refuge

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — A bolt of lightning ripped into a tobacco curing barn Wednesday and electrocuted eight persons taking shelter during a rainstorm. A ninth suffered shock.

Several persons, including the 4-year-old daughter of two of the victims, were not hurt.

It appeared that most of the victims were sitting on metal tobacco curers which acted as conductors for the electricity.

Eugene Daughtry, a strapping 16-year-old Negro, was sitting on the ground with his head against a curer.

"I saw a flash and heard thunder," he said. "Something jarred my head a little bit and that's all I remember. I guess I was knocked out."

Daughtry was treated at a hospital here for shock and was reported to be in good condition.

The disaster had a shattering impact on the residents of this farming area in Sampson County, about 60 miles southeast of Raleigh. A silent stream of curious passed the tarpaper barn during the afternoon.

"You hear about tragedies when they happen away off and you don't think about it," said Chief Deputy John E. Warren of the Sampson sheriff's department. "When it happens close at home, it's different."

A small, hatch-like door, knocked from its hinges, was the only damage to the barn.

None of the bodies of the three white and five Negro victims bore burn marks. Dr. L. C. Peak, who treated Daughtry and examined most of the victims, said, "They didn't even look dead."

The victims included Oscar Lee Cottle, 27, and his wife, Annette, 21, tenant operators of the tobacco, cotton and corn farm owned by Rufus Bryant, about three miles south of Clinton. The other white victim was William Keel, 13, a neighbor who lived across the road.

The Negroes, all of Clinton, were Mary Morrisey, 70; Joyce Ann Mathis, 13; Ludie Mathis, 18; Earl Bell, 15; and Samuel Newkirk, 16.

Posse Traps Officer's Killer In Colo. Canyon

KREMMLING, Colo., (UPI) — An unidentified motorist fatally wounded a state patrol lieutenant and wounded a sheriff, an undersheriff and a game and fish deputy Wednesday.

The gunman, armed with a German Luger pistol, was surrounded at sunset in a steep-walled canyon, 30 to 40 miles south of here.

The Kremmling marshal's office said a posse of a dozen men had the killer encircled, and called for reinforcements.

State Patrol Lt. Hiram Short died on the operating table at Middle Park Hospital in Kremmling.

Sheriff Chauncey Van Pelt of Grand County was shot in the chest. Dr. Bert Sutherland said at the hospital that Van Pelt was in "fairly serious condition."

A state game and fish department warden named Hoover, shot in both arms and the abdomen, was given emergency attention by Dr. Sutherland, and then sent to Denver in an ambulance.

The fourth victim of the motorist, an Eagle County undersheriff, was shot in the jaw. Dr. Sutherland said his condition was "good."

Guatemala Crushes Revolutionary Plot

GUATEMALA CITY, (UPI) — The government crushed a revolutionary plot at dawn Wednesday seizing some 50 political oppositionists.

An official communique said three armored trucks laden with arms and explosives and intended for use in an attack on the Guatemalan air force base here were captured.

The statement did not identify the plotters but said the government had prior knowledge of their plans. "The revolt movement with its many ramifications has been perfectly controlled," it said. "Peace and quiet reign throughout the republic."

Forest Fires Level Two Villages, Menace Others

MADERA, Calif (AP)—A brush fire which destroyed two villages south of Yosemite National Park Tuesday raced to the doorsteps of two other towns Wednesday.

Another fire, north of Yosemite, had burned over 25,000 acres—making a total of 62,000 acres covered by the two blazes.

Flames were within a mile of Coarsegold, 30 miles northeast of Madera, and almost as close to Oakhurst, seven miles farther northeast.

Dan Scholbohm, acting fire dispatcher said in Fresno that both towns appeared safe, barring a rising wind.

The same blaze, south of Yosemite National Park, Tuesday wiped out the villages of Nipinnawasee and Ahwahnee, northeast of Oakhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kipp, both in their 60s, were killed as they fled Ahwahnee. Their car stalled on a mountain road and flames caught up with them.

The second fire, north of Yosemite, was held to 25,000 acres during the day after sweeping over 9,000 acres during the early morning hours. A flareup in the Long Gulch area of Calaveras County was the major worry of fire fighters.

Some 2,5000 fire fighters kept flames from making heavy inroads on timber stands. Most devastated areas where grasslands or brush.

Vacationers and campers fled threatened areas. Among them were 135 girls from the Timberloft girls' camp and 175 boys from the Sugar Pine Baptist camp and Calvin Crest Presbyterian camp, both in the southern fire area.

Czech Plane Crash Kills 72 Persons

Giant Soviet-Built Airliner Hits Power Line At Casablanca

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—A Soviet-built Czechoslovak airliner ripped into a 60,000-volt power line and carried 72 persons to death in an attempted landing near Casablanca Wednesday.

The giant turboprop Ilyushin-18—beset by bad weather over Morocco on a flight from Prague and Zurich — exploded thunderously with a blinding flash of electricity and plowed into the ground at the Camp Caze airport.

Among the 64 passengers and 8 crewmen only Kouli Baly, 31, of the Mali Republic got out alive. Severely burned, he died in a Casablanca hospital.

Sister Ship Crashed March 29

Soviets, Czechs and Africans made up most of the dead in this second disaster to befall an Africa-bound Czechoslovak liner within four months. A sister Ilyushin-18 crashed March 29 near Nuernberg, Germany, killing all 52 persons aboard.

There were unconfirmed reports that the cargo included Communist documentary films and pamphlets for African distribution.

(A Zurich airport officer who declined to be identified by name said several of the Soviets, not fully described on the manifest, were Soviet flying instructors on the way to train Negro air crews in Guinea and Ghana.)

The pilot was Capt. Josef Mikus, a decorated veteran of World War II.

Bad Weather Closes In

His big four - engine plane crossed the Mediterranean before dawn and tried for a landing at Rabat, 30 miles northeast of Casablanca. Poor visibility forced it on to Camp Caze, 10 miles away.

Bad weather suddenly closed in there also. Officials said the tower crew instructed Mikus to head for the U.S. air base at Nouasseur, 15 miles south, but the plane was already in its glide path.

It hit the power line with a jolt that wrenched loose two big cable pylons. Two engines ripped loose and flew more than 100 yards. Some bodies were catapulted from the shattered fuselage.

South Korean Dam Breaks; 127 Dead, Missing

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Swollen by torrential monsoon rains, an irrigation reservoir burst through a dam near Namwon Wednesday, flooding the city. The South Korean Red Cross reported 114 persons dead and 13 missing, and said the death toll could go higher.

Hundreds of residents worked feverishly through the night piling sandbags against a second threatened dam, the Yo Chun. The two dams water a rice-and-cotton-growing area 150 miles south of Seoul.

About 425 houses were reported smashed or washed away when the earth-and-concrete Iebak Dam collapsed. Two villages near Namwon, a city of 38,000, were also reported flooded by the muddy waters.

The disaster was the worst in a week of rains that have spread death and misery over this country.

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Floods after three days of torrential rains breached a dam on the Mutha River outside Poona Wednesday, threatening the west Indian city of 300,000 with disaster.

The ground floor of the town hall was under water. Streets were awash. The swollen river was still rising, 10 feet an hour in some spots.

Eichmann Admits He Sent Jews To Deaths

JERUSALEM (UPI) — An ashen - faced and trembling Adolf Eichmann Wednesday admitted he shipped thousands of Jewish men, women and children to their deaths in the Nazi murder factories during World Warr II.

It was possibly the most damaging admission yet by the former SS colonel during his lengthy trial, and it electrified the Israeli court trying him for the mass murders of 6 million European Jews.

But Eichmann, like a broken record, insisted over and over again that he was only a "tool" acting under orders from his superiors.

Adenauer In West Berlin

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer (left) confers with his political opponent, Mayor Willy Brandt, yesterday during his first visit to West Berlin in 18 months. Brandt, who is leading Socialist campaign to unseat the Christian Democrat Adenauer in the Sept. 17 West German elections, assured Adenauer of hearty welcome during his two-day visit. East Germany's controlled press called the visit a provocation. (AP Photofax via radio from Berlin)

Eight Big Firms Pledge To End Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight more huge industrial firms signed pledges Wednesday at the White House promising they would try to eliminate racial discrimination at their plants. The companies employ 760,000 people.

Both President Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson expressed confidence that many other companies would sign similar pledges.

At about the same time, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., told the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity that the powers Kennedy has conferred on it violate the constitution.

Sparkman referred especially to Kennedy's action in empowering the committee to impose sanctions on government contractors whose employment practices discriminate against Negroes and other racial groups.

"Such action may be taken with no hearings required except when it is proposed to debar a person from further government contracts," Sparkman said. "In no case is the contractor entitled to appeal for a review of a decision denying him rights guaranteed by contract or privileges assured by law."

Sparkman submitted his statement in response to the committee's request for comments on its proposed regulations.

The signings brought to nine the firms that have pledged to eradicate racial discrimination in their employment practices. The first such pledge was signed May 25 with the Lockheed Corp., whose Marietta, Ga., plant had been the target of discrimination complaints by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The companies and their presidents who signed the agreements Wednesday were: Boeing Airplane Co., W. M. Allen; Douglas Aircraft Co., D. W. Douglas Jr.; General Electric Co., Ralph Cordiner; Martin Co., W. B. Bergen; North American Aviation, Inc., L. Atwood; Radio Corp. of America, J. L. Burns; United Aircraft Corp., W. P. Gwinn; and Western Electric Co., H. I. Romnes.

Army Asks 8,000 Draftees In August

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Defense Department Wednesday issued a call for 8,000 draftees for the Army in August.

The Army requested 6,000 men this month. There were no draft calls in May and June, and the April quota was only 1,500.

The August quota was the largest since last December, when 8,000 men were drafted. In October last year the draft was 9,000.

August inductions will bring to 2,610,950 the total number of men drafted since the start of the Korean War in 1950.

U.S. Polio Cases 'Remarkably Low'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Public Health Service reported Wednesday "a remarkably low level" of polio cases in the United States this year.

Eighteen new cases reported from 11 states for the week ended July 1, it said, raised the total for the first half of the year to 237—the smallest comparable figure since the Salk polio vaccine was approved for use. There were 469 cases at the same time last year and 1,026 in that period of 1959.

Eight of the 18 new cases reported were paralytic, the PHS said, but added: "Although a distinct seasonal increase in cases would normally be anticipated by this time of year, the national incidence remains at a remarkably low level."

First Russian MIGs In Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Fidel Castro regime in Cuba has acquired MIG jets, official sources said Wednesday. The MIGS are the first Soviet aircraft based in this hemisphere.

The buildup of air power follows many months of heavy purchases by the Havana government of guns, tanks and other war gear, chiefly from Iron Curtain countries.

News of the acquisition of an undetermined number of jet aircraft coincides with reports that Latin-American nations, particularly in the Caribbean area, have been revising and modernizing defense plans.

One expert here said the MIG jet is primarily a defensive fighter plane. But he added, "It can be a very destructive, mean weapon when rockets, napalm or other bombs are mounted. It already has very considerable fire power from several cannon."

The newspaper El Siglo of Bogota, Colombia, said recently Castro's air force received 26 MIG jets. It was this report that U.S. officials confirmed Wednesday, adding that the actual number may be greater than 26.

Pakistan Chief Says U.S. Can't Afford Aid Halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pakistan's President Ayub Khan told a joint meeting of Congress Wednesday the United States cannot afford to stop providing assistance to his country and other similar nations.

For 50 minutes the Pakistan leader, speaking flawless Sandhurst (military school) English, spoke to the House and Senate on aid and the state of democracy in his country.

Congressional reaction was favorable with the emphasis placed on the candor with which Ayub spoke.

"It was the frankest baring of the mind and heart of a chief of state I have heard in 30 years in Congress," commented Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. "I didn't agree with everything he said, of course."

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., a senior member of the Foreign Relations Committee, called Ayub "a supersalesman." Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark. of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said, "He was frank and outspoken; I only hope we are equally as frank in talking with him."

Ayub appeared before the joint session after spending an hour and 40 minutes with President Kennedy at the White House discussing the economic development of his country.

A scheduled talk on Kashmir and relations with India was deferred until Thursday, the final day of his state visit.

Ayub told Congress that in the event of real trouble "there is no other country in Asia where you can put your foot in."

"The only people who will stand by you are the people of Pakistan," he said, with a burst of applause interrupting his sentence.

When the applause died down Ayub added:" Provided you are of course ready to stand by the people of Pakistan."

Ayub urged the United States not to take any steps which would aggravate Pakistan's problems or jeopardize its security.

U.S. Orbits Space Eyes To Spot Missiles, Storms

By The Associated Press

The United States put two watchful eyes in space Wednesday—a satellite to spot missiles the moment they are fired and another to hunt hurricanes.

Up from Point Arguello, Calif., went Midas III, first missile-alarm satellite, into a 1,850-mile-high orbit, a record for a circular path, although satellites have gone higher in oval orbits. Midas III orbits every 2 hours and 40 minutes and its path takes it over the Soviet Union.

Midas III is a 3,500-pound, 30-foot long space scout with an infrared eye which can sense heat from a missiles' exhaust and then report it.

The orbit altitude compares with a previous high for a U.S. satellite of about 300 miles. The Air Force had expected Midas III to orbit at about 500 miles but said the higher orbit simply means it could scan a larger area of the earth at any given moment.

On a day of spectacular U.S. space success, the Cape Canaveral, Fla., team put up a hurricane-hunting satellite in a near-perfect launch. It also is in an almost circular orbit ranging from 450 to 425 miles at high and low points.

Called Tiros III, this satellite weighs 285 pounds and carries cameras and sending equipment to relay cloud pictures back to earth. On its first pass around the globe, it took and transmitted 35 pictures. The special aim of this project is to develop information on the cause and movement of hurricanes.

Must Precede Peace Treaty, Moscow Told

Note Opens West's Diplomatic Offense In German Crisis

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government told Moscow Wednesday the signing of a peace treaty with Germany must be preceded by free elections throughout the divided nation.

Opening the West's diplomatic offensive in the rising crisis over Germany and Berlin, West Germany replied to a note from Soviet Premier Khrushchev Feb. 17 proposing that separate peace treaties be signed with West Germany and Communist East Germany.

Bonn's reply was delayed for consultations with its allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Allies Prepare Replies

The United States, Britain and France now are preparing replies to the Soviet Union's note of June 4 warning that Khrushchev will sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany by the end of the year unless the West agrees to Khrushchev's terms for a German settlement.

Bonn's note to Moscow said a peace treaty must be concluded with a legitimate German government elected freely by all the German people exercising their right of self-determination.

The memorandum was handed to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Moscow.

"The time for conclusion of a peace treaty therefore depends on the readiness of the government of the Soviet Socialist Republics to allow the German people to exercise the right of self-determination," the memorandum said.

Adenauer In West Berlin

The note sugggested it would be a welcome step if the Soviet government "could come as soon as possible to a suitable decision to make negotiations on a peace treaty with an all-German government at all possible."

Adenauer himself was in West Berlin, the focal point of the crisis, to demonstrate German unity. Should Khrushchev carry out his threat to sign a separate treaty with Communist East Germany, Allied lifelines to West Berlin would be left at the mercy of the East German regime.

Four "Riders" Change Minds, Return To Jail

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Four Freedom Riders changed their minds and returned to jail Wednesday night after earlier agreeing to stop their tour of the South in exchange for suspended fines and jail sentences.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Four "Freedom Riders" agreed Wednesday to stop their bus-riding segregation tests in the South in exchange for suspended fines and jail sentences.

Municipal Judge Quinn Glover convicted the four on breach of peace charges and fined each $500 and gave them six-month jail sentences, the maximum penalty. If they would go home, he said, he would suspend judgment.

After more than an hour of conferences, which included long-distance telephone calls, the riders accepted. They had planned to go on to New Orleans before their arrest Monday night.

They were released from jail, pending their departure.

In convicting them, Glover rejected a defense contention that the arrests in a bus station interfered with interstate commerce. He said that being an interstate bus passenger does not exempt a person from arrest for violation of local laws.

Glover also denied defense pleas that the arrests violated due process of law guaranteed by the U. S. Constitution or that the state law used for the arrests was unconstitutional.

Only one rider, the Rev. Elton B. Cox of St. Louis, Negro field secretary for the Congress of Racial Equality, testified. The others convicted were Bliss Ann Malone, 23, St. Louis Negro teacher, Janet Reintiz, 23, a white New York housewife, and the Rev. John C. Raines, white pastor of the Setauket, N.Y., Methodist Church.

New Asian Red Pacts Factor In Arms Review

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new mutual assistance pacts the Soviet Union and Red China have signed with North Korea are adding to the potential troubles areas that must be taken into account in the current reassessment of U.S. military ability.

The Pentagon emphasizes that the rush-order review ordered by President Kennedy last Saturday is not based exclusively on the danger of a new West Berlin crisis.

"There are places all over the world where we may be asked to be in a position where we will have to take more military action than we have today," Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric told newsmen Tuesday.

The review involves all types of conventional forces — ground, navy and air—"which may be utilized or deployed in connection with the world situation," Gilpatric explained.

He did not mention specific places on which the new scrutiny is aimed. But to the long list he presumably had in mind—Cuba, Africa, the Middle East, Southeast Asia, the Far East—there had come the matter of the Red mutual assistance pacts with North Korea.

How much these pacts are based on political situations and prestige and how much on actual military interest is confused.

Defensively or offensively, Eastern Siberia presents some problems for the Soviet Union, as well as advantages.

For an offensive, the Soviet Union is able to maintain a powerful garrison of land, sea and air forces in position short distances from U.S. territory. For defense, the deployment of these forces means the Soviet Union is in position to guard against the day when an Asian ally might defect. China is just across the border, and so is Red North Korea.

On the other hand, the Eastern Siberian garrison is removed from the Soviet heartland of production and manpower by several thousand miles of tundra, steppes, rivers and mountains.

These supply lines would be vulnerable to both ordinary blockade and to long-range air attack.

Nuclear-Powered Rockets Envisioned

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Small nuclear bombs, shaped to send their explosive energy in one direction, may some day be propelling American aeronautics into the far reaches of space, a scientist said Wednesday.

William R. Corliss, an engineer in the nuclear division of the Martin Co., of Baltimore, said such a propulsion system would move space vehicles weighing three or four thousand tons.

Corliss was one of many scientists attending the first southeastern Conference on Aero-Space Sciences at the University of South Florida. It is scheduled to run through next week.

Corliss said that even the smallest nuclear bombs science can produce would develop so much force that special methods of cushioning would be necessary to protect passengers from the powerful acceleration forces.

U.S. Ministers Get Police Protection In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — The ministers of a Christian missionary church in Jerusalem were granted police protection Wednesday after mob violence from groups of young Jewish hooligans.

The Jerusalem district commissioner also promised a meeting of government officials to curb the wave of stone-throwing, window-smashing and vandalism.

The Fundamentalist Church of Christ was opened some months ago by the Rev. Ralph T. Hanley of Chattanooga, Tenn., and the Rev. Ernest O. Stewart of Detroit. Since then, it is alleged, it has aroused ill feeling in local residents who fell it may attract children away from the Jewish faith.

A police spokesman said there had been several instances of stone-throwing and window-smashing at the church and also threats against leaders and members.

He added that a special police guard had been granted the church when services are held every Sunday and Wednesday.

The spokesman said one of the complaints against the church was that it held lantern-slide programs, attracting many children from the all-Jewish neighborhood. He added that while his men would protect the mission they could do nothing against the popular resentment which the church was arousing among local Jewish families.

The appeal for protection was made by both ministers at the same time they also lodged complaints with Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and U.S. Consul General Erik Wendelin.

There are said to be about 1,000 Jewish children visiting Christian missionary schools in Israel, and officials make no pretense of hiding their dislike at missionary activities.

Some of the Christian missions have been accused of attracting children by giving them special food rations and free clothing.

The Church of Christ has repeatedly denied that any material inducements have been made to get children to attend.

Three Perish In Crash Of Two Cars And Truck

LA PLATA, Md. (AP)—Three persons died and another was injured near here Wednesday in a collision involving two passenger cars and a tractor-trailer.

State Police identified the victims as Capt. Patrick Brennan of Ventnor City, N. J.; Kathryn McGarrity of Media, Pa., and Francis Gibson, 51, Avenue, St. Marys County, Md.

Officers said Capt. Brennan, the driver of a sedan, attempted to pass a foreign car driven by Gibson. Brennan's car collided head-on with a tractor-trailer driven by Marvin Ray, of Graham, N. C. The captain's car, in which the woman was a passenger, then recoiled and struck the vehicle driven by Gibson.

Officers said the accident occurred shortly after noon on a stretch of U. S. 301 constricted because of construction. They said the truck was southbound, and the other vehicles northbound.

Capt. Brennan and his passenger were pronounced dead on the scene. Gibson died in Physicians Memorial Hospital here, where Ray was admitted in satisfactory condition.

Fire Guts Laundry Firm At Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — A south Baltimore laundry firm was gutted by fire and extensively damaged by water late Wednesday afternoon.

Six alarms were sounded but no one was injured seriously at the site of the blaze, Pilgrim Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co., 100 E. Ostend St. The fire was of unknown origin.

Extent of the damage was not immediately determined, but manager John Santulli said he thought most of the equipment was ruined. Ed Saffran, hte owner, was out of town, Santulli said.

License Number Matched, But . . .

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—A city employe was summoned before officials Tuesday to explain why a city automobile assigned to him had been seen in Maryland over the weekend.

The employe had been on vacation. But he swore that the city car had been parked at his house all weekend.

The weight of evidence seemed against him. For state police at North East, Md., had sent a teletyped inquiry concerning a license number that matched the one on the city car.

The Schenectady Gazette solved the puzzle by telephoning the Maryland police. The license in question was on a boat trailer—a fact that had been lost in relay of the query.

Peel Acquitted Of Death Plot

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A six-man jury acquitted Joseph A. Peel Jr. Wednesday of plotting to murder Floyd (Lucky) Holzapfel, swarthy killer who named Peel as mastermind in the celebrated slayings of Circuit Judge and Mrs. C. E. Chillingworth.

The Brevard County Circuit Court jury returned its verdict of innocent after an hour and 42 minutes of deliberation.

Peel, already serving a life sentence as mastermind in the 1955 murder of Judge Chillingworth, broke into a broad grin when the verdict was announced.

J. Donald Miles, Eau Gaillien, Fla., plumber and former Peel associate who had pleaded guilty to the charge of conspiring with Peel to kill Holzapfel, was allowed to withdraw his plea after the jury brought in its verdict.

Peel was charged with plotting to kill Holzapfel because of what Holzapfel knew about the murders at sea of Circuit Judge and Mrs. C. E. Chillingworth.

Holzapfel and Negro moonshiner George (Bobby) Lincoln admitted drowning the Chillingworth couple in the Atlantic Ocean, and named Peel as the mastermind in the slayings. Holzapfel, star witness against Peel at Fort Pierce, was sentenced to the electric chair.

Women's Air Race Deadline Is Moved Back

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The end of the Powder Puff Derby was postponed Wednesday for the first time in its 15-year history, and there were indications the transcontinental air race for women could drag on for several days.

The original deadline of 1 p. m. Wednesday was pushed back 24 hours by the timers' committee after only 10 of the 97 aircraft in the San Diego-to-Atlantic City race had finished. One of the 10 was disqualified for bypassing two mandatory stops.

Further postponements were expected because of bad weather, which kept most of the competitors on the ground at Jackson, Miss., and Montgomery, Ala., Tuesday.

Late Wednesday, race officials said they had no word of any progress beyond Montgomery, although the airport there was reported open.

"They can leave Montgomery, but they have no place to go," Miss Joan Hrubeck, a timer, said.

"The next mandatory stop is Hagerstown, Md. There is bad weather between Montgomery and Hagerstown and at optional stops along the way. We just don't know when they'll get off."

Among the early finishers, the team of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Hall, Orville, Calif., and Mrs. Zoe West, Willows, Calif., continued to hold unofficial first place.

The disqualified team was Mrs. Barbara Kiernan, Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Barbara Evans, Manhasset, N. Y. They arrived late Tuesday coming directly from Dallas.

Competing aircraft are handicapped for the race and the winner is not determined by who finishes first but by the amount of flying time required considering the capability of the aircraft.

Two of the women aviators escaped uninjured Wednesday when their plane crashed near Lynchburg, Va., during a leg of the derby.

Mrs. Teresa D. Vasquez of San Diego, Calif., was the pilot of the Beechcraft Bonanza. She is a dynamics engineer for Convair Corp.

Mrs. Vasquez was accompanied by Grazia Sartori of Rome, Italy, who is considered Italy's outstanding aviatrix.

Thick clouds and fog forced Mrs. Vasquez down between the Blue Ridge Mountains and Lynchburg. An official timer of the derby at Preston Glenn Airport directed her to a small field three miles south of Lynchburg.

As Mrs. Vasquez came in for a landing the plane mowed down three fence posts and its right wing struck a telephone pole. The impact of the pole spun the plane around and it crashed on a road outside the airfield.

The two women were considerably shaken up, but otherwise unhurt. They will spend the night in Lynchburg.

Arson Suspected In Warehouse Fire

HUGHESVILLE, Md. (AP) — State Police are checking into the possibility of arson in connection with a $500,000 tobacco warehouse blaze here early Wednesday.

The fire appeared to have started in a packing shed, later spreading to a large warehouse and another packing shed in this Charles County town, 40 miles from downtown Washington.

One fire official said the possibility of arson was being considered because it was "too big a fire and had too big a start."

UAW Asks GM To Foot Bill For Health Insurance

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Union served notice Wednesday it wants General Motors Corp. to pay the full cost of hospital-medical insurance for its 335,000 active and retired workers — a demand the company said would cost $86 million a year.

GM now pays half the cost of the medical care plans — an estimated $43 million a year, with the workers paying the remainder.

But the company should assume the full burden, the UAW said, because "the increasing cost of health insurance is resulting in a major drain on the take-home pay of GM workers. Premiums keep rising and eating into wages.'

The union made its demand during negotiations with GM to write a new contract before the present 1958 pact expires Aug. 31.

Similar negotiations continued Wednesday at the Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

At Ford, the union and company clashed on whether labor should be given a voice in where management decides to build new factories.

The UAW argued that it had a moral right to protect the interests of its workers and their communities in any Ford decision to transfer operations or build new plants.

But Ford said that "under no circumstances" would it relinquish its rights in this area because "only management is or can be qualified to make such decisions."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS. It was so difficult to decide which mother-in-law letter was the best that I selected two which I felt were the most deserving and I am awarding duplicate first prizes.

The gold medals have been mailed to the winners who wrote the letters which appear in today's column. (I felt the writers of the letters should enjoy the thrill of presenting the medals).

The medals are fashioned in gold, the size of a half dollar, with an over lay of gold braid. One side is engraved "The Ann Landers medal for the world's best mother-in-law." On the other side, its is engraved "to ..... from....."

My warm thanks to the thousands who wrote. And to the winners, my heartiest congratulations.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother-in-law is a devout Roman Catholic. I am not. She never spoke to me about changing my religion, nor did she suggest ways to improve my housekeeping or my cooking or how to raise my children.

She told me what to do only one time in my life— and that was six months after her son's death. She said, "Jennie, I don't want you to go through life alone. You should remarry."

Four years ago my father-in-law passed away. He wasn't well-to-do, but he left a modest estate. My mother-in-law gave me the same share of his estate that her son and daughter received. Although my husband had been dead several years and I had remarried, she said "You are still my daughter-in-law."

The only time she ever refused me anything was shortly after she became widowed. I asked her to move in with me. She said, "Thanks a lot but one family under a single roof is plenty."

My mother-in-law deserves the highest praise that can be bestowed upon her. Her name is Mary Slazyk. She lives at 5924 South Richmond Street in Chicago. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to tell the world about this remarkable woman.

JENNIE KAPISCHKE

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was married in 1954. Neither my wife nor I realized at the time that my "social drinking" was just plain alcoholism.

For over four years my wife did her best to put up with me. Then she gave up and took the children and left. I can't say I blame her.

After that I really hit bottom. I ended up at the Kansas State Hospital in Osawatamie. I was a human wreck — no good to anybody. The only person who stood by me during those dark days was my mother-in-law. She wrote me four and five letters a week begging me to keep fighting. She said if I had faith in myself I could climb back up again and be a self-respecting human being. Her letters kept me alive. I learned during those horrible weeks that if just one person believes in you, you can make it back.

As soon as I got out of the hospital I joined Alcoholics Anonymous. I've been dry almost six months now and I am determined to stay that way. My wife and I are still separated but I'm hoping for a reconciliation.

If anyone deserves a medal it's my mother-in-law.

She's had a hard life — still works every day as a waitress and takes care of an invalid son. Her name is Loueva Cunningham and she lives in Marshall, Missouri. — STEPHEN YARSULIK, Kansas City, Kansas.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Those judged champions in the senior division will participate in the state contest, which will be held at Club Week during the week of August 7.

Judges tonight are Mrs. James Armstrong, Mrs. James R. Smith and Mrs. Edward Lewis.

A committee of 4-H worked on the activity and wrote the script consisted of Patricia Campbell, Reta Daniels, Dorothy Long, Linda Maguire, Jean Miltenberger, Joan Miltenberger, Caroline Walker and Suzanne Weatherholt.

Society Votes Purchases

Centerville WSCS voted to purchase five dozen new folding chairs for the church basement, and a permanent television antenna for the parsonage. Mrs. Dwight Rose conducted the meeting at the church. Final plans were made for the lawn festival, August 5, with Mrs. Melvin Nee and Mrs. Harold Welch cochairmen. Routine reports were given and a donation of $25 was made in support of Miss Joan Hughes, missionary from the Hagerstown district. A cup and dish towel shower was held for the church kitchen.

Mrs. John Stevenson and Miss Noreen Stevenson were welcomed as members.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Charles Shinholt, using "People of the Word" for the meditation. Mrs. Cecil Nave gave a reading on the theme. A program of poems and readings was given by Miss Deborah Perdew, Mrs. Glenn Dermer, Miss Tanya Boden and Miss Dorothy Rose. Mrs. Wilson Martz was soloist and Mrs. Clyde Rose led the group in a game.

Others attending were: Mrs. Raymond Lyons, Mrs. Naomi Reeder, Mrs. Clinton Wilhelm, Mrs. Carl Elliott, Mrs. Olive Nave, Mrs. Walter McCoy, Mrs. Homer Zembower, Mrs. Paul Rose, Mrs. Donald Perdew, Mrs. Shirley Hartman, Mrs. Lloyd Zembower, Mrs. Cletus Elliott, Mrs. Minnie Oster, Mrs. Oleta Mickey, Mrs. Claude Streett, Mrs. Russell Oster, Mrs. Ivan Mills, Mrs. Glenn Mickey, Mrs. Veryle Nave, Miss Mary Elizabeth Arnold, Miss Deborah Reeder, Miss Nancy Perdew, Miss Theresa Hartman, Miss Deborah Elliott, Miss Donna Mickey, Miss Betty Jo McCoy, Gail and Cynthia Boden.

Donates Flag

Ross F. Shaw of Oldtown has donated a 50-star American Flag to the Garrett County Historical Society. The flag had flown over the national Capitol. It was accepted by Mrs. W. M. Grant, secretary of the society, of which Mr. Shaw has been a member for several years.

Cpl. and Mrs. Charles William Imes Jr., 214 South Smallwood Street, have returned from a week's vacation in Atlantic City and Philadelphia. He will report to the Marine Corps at Norfolk, Va., July 17.

No wonder the English keep so cool!

(mix Gordon's Gin in a tall, iced drink–and you will, too!)

The English are not easily fazed, even by summer heat. This national talent was given a cheerful accompaniment in 1769, when Alexander Gordon introduced his remarkable gin. The Gordon's you drink today harks back to his original formula, because one does not tamper with gin of such distinctive dryness and flavour. Try it soon in a tangy Gin & Tonic or Tom Collins. You'll see why, summer and winter, Gordon's Gin is the biggest seller in England, America, and indeed – the world!

Robert Cunningham Heads St. John's League

Officers were elected and awards were presented at the dinner held by St. John's Lutheran Mixed Bowling League, concluding its initial season.

Robert Cunningham, founder of the league, was elected president; Kenneth Hensel, vice president; Rebecca Collins, secretary, and Billie Jean Himmler, treasurer.

League singing was led by Rev. Russell Fink. Several accordion selections were played by George Abbott. Pictures of league members' younger days were shown with appropriate poems read.

Kirk Lathrum served as master of ceremonies. The choirs won both the regular season and the playoffs, and each presented two trophies. Members of that team were Eloise Early, captain; Helen Bunner, Wanda Davidson, Mary Squires, Melva Hartell, Leroy Arnonholt, Webster Webster, Warren Davis, Gorman Davis, and Dallas Hite.

Sportsmanship awards went to Bertie Giessman, Laura Shumaker and Reese Early.

High average awards were given to Helen Bunner and Joseph Athey. Trophies were presented to Laura Shumaker and William Reed for winning the high-low doubles tournament. Rebecca Collins received an award for the most improved bowler; Kenneth Hensel, for high game of 211; and Laura Shumaker women's high set.

A pair of bowling shoes was presented to Delores Cunningham for donating corsages and boutonnieres.

Mrs. James Grosh and daughters, Los Altos, Calif., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thorner Smith, 127 Cumberland Street.

Princess Anne Being Raised Democratically

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — "Don't get so worked up, Anne," the Queen of Great Britain says.

The scene: the polo matches.

But Princess Anne, who will be 11 on August 15, doesn't heed the queen's command. She continues to jump and yell excitedly as the match progresses.

Sometimes the princess — third in line of succession to the throne — even bites her nails. Once she was slapped in public for this unroyal conduct.

The princess comes by her love for polo matches and horses naturally. Weekends, the queen and Prince Philip take the princess with them to Windsor Castle.

There, mother and daughter ride before breakfast.

When her father plays polo in the afternoon, Princess Anne is in the paddock, too, wearing slacks and waterproof jacket. She helps to brush down the ponies and water them.

The princess isn't all rough and tumble. She's appeared most ladylike at various royal weddings. Her first sip of champagne was a great treat.

"It gets up my nose and makes me giggle," she declared.

There's no extravagance at Buckingham Palace when it comes to keeping the queen's daughter in clothes. Some of her cotton frocks were made from clothes the queen wore on overseas tours.

When her second cousin, the Duke of Kent, recently married Kate Worsley, news pictures showed Anne in a white frock. It's to be her party outfit for the rest of the year.

Princess Anne is being brought up more democratically than any other British monarch's daughter ever has been.

Take education. The aim is to teach her to be "just like other girls" — instead of something special being set apart because of royal rank.

Take her introduction to the world outside the palace.

Visitors to London this summer easily may have rubbed shoulders with her among the crowds at tourist spots like the London Tower, the zoo or St. Paul's Cathedral.

And they sat in seats near her at a news-cinema or ballet performance or the Royal Tournament.

When the princess goes on such excursions she looks like other English schoolgirls. To avoid identification, she doesn't travel in one of the queen's limousines but in a private black car.

Her two best school friends, Caroline Hamilton and Susan Babington-Smith usually accompany Anne.

In the front seat is the governess Katherine Peebles. A Scotland Yard detective drives.

Princess Anne has a hard-working, firmly disciplined life. Every morning at nine, she visits with her mother and father for a few minutes. Then she's off to feed ducks and flamingoes in the lake. At 9:30 a.m., she's at her desk in the third-floor schoolroom.

Class commences with a Bible lesson.

Lunch at one is a simple meal — say salad with cheese and biscuits or cake afterwards, hot meat or fish with vegetables, then ice cream and fruit maybe. The menu is in French.

The princess is fluent in the language and often talks French to her footman.

She takes a piano lesson weekly. There's extra French coaching on Mondays and Fridays. Dancing's studied every Thursday.

Then there are drives to parks where the governess gives informal botany and wild life lessons. School ends for the day at four.

Then the princess spends two hours with her mother. Sometimes the queen reads to her. Sometimes they watch television or listen to radio music or new records.

Prince Philip drops in if he can. At six, the family often visits with Prince Andrew in the nursery.

The little lady like many others, just then is on the verge of being settled down for the night.

Tawes' Plea Given Guarded Support

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A plea that Maryland restaurants take action to avoid snubbing touring African diplomats seeking food service has drawn reserved support from two sources.

Gov. Tawes called for an end to discrimination and asked every Marylander "to place his nation's interest above personal preference" in such matters.

George Mesologites, president of the Restaurant Association of Maryland, said he agreed with the governor that such incidents damage the nation's reputation.

But solving the problem, he said, is another matter.

"Those people (the restaurant owners) are in danger if they integrate. They have made large investments," Mesologites said. He added:

"Looking at it from the country's point of view, I agree. But looking at it from the large investors' viewpoint, the coin has another side."

Mesologites said the association, which has fewer than half the state's restaurants in membership, has taken no formal stand on the matter.

Del. Irma G. Dixon, D-Balto 4th, praised the governor's declaration. But the lawmaker added:

"It may be a step in the right direction, though actually it is further discrimination, a three-part classification of white, African dignitary, and beyond the pale, the American Negro."

The governor issued his statement Tuesday, citing four cases in which diplomats from African countries have been refused service in Maryland during the last six months.

The operator of one restaurant on U.S. 40 near Edgewood, Mrs. Leroy Merritt of the Bonnie Brae Diner, said she could recall no incident at her establishment - although it was possible a counter girl had denied service to a touring ambassador.

The State Department had identified the Bonnie Brae as the site of one incident. Mrs. Merritt said the diner did not ordinarily serve Negroes, but would serve an African diplomat.

Welfare Work Plan Launched

BALTIMORE (AP) — An experimental program under which able-bodied recipients of welfare aid are required to work for the city began operation here Wednesday.

The first eight men affected by the new program reported for work when municipal offices opened nor the day, and were assigned to two city agencies. About 200 such welfare recipients, both men and women, are expected to begin work soon.

The work-for-welfare plan will operate for six months to determine its effectiveness in cutting rising welfare costs in Baltimore. All future applicants for aid will receive physical examinations and will be classified according to their ability to work.

The program was devised by the Baltimore Board of Estimates, on the theory many welfare recipients would prefer to work for their payments and that other persons may be discouraged from applying for aid if they know they will have to work for it.

Spokesmen of the agencies to which the workers are being assigned said the work will be on needed projects that would not otherwise have been authorized because of a lack of funds.

Middletown, Md., Boy Stricken With Polio

FREDERICK (AP) — Kenneth Ramsburg, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsburg of Middletown, was confirmed by Frederick County health officials Wednesday as the area's third polio victim of the summer.

The boy, who had received no anti-polio shots, was admitted to Frederick Memorial Hospital for treatment on Monday.

Bishop Shehan Given New Post In Archdiocese

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Most Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, born in Baltimore 63 years ago, will return to his native city as coadjutor bishop of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Pope John XXIII named Bishop Shehan to the post, with the title "Titular Archbishop of Nicopolis ad Nestum and Coadjutor with right of succession to His Excellency Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore."

Bishop Shehan served as auxiliary bishop of Baltimore under Archbishop Keough from Dec. 12, 1945, until 1953, when he was named to head the newly created diocese of Bridgeport, Conn., where he has served since.

His appointment to the new post was announced here by Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, Apostolic delegate to Washington.

Baltimore has been without an auxiliary bishop for the big Roman Catholic archdiocese since the death of Bishop Jereome D. Sebastian last Oct. 11.

Bishop Shehan is the son of the late Thomas and Anastasia Schofield Shehan, and attended St. Charles College in Catonsville, St. Marys' Seminary and the North American College in Rome, where he was ordained to the priesthood Sept. 23, 1922.

He returned to the United States after his ordination, and served 22 years at St. Patrick's Church in Washington, the last four as pastor. When he was consecrated auxiliary bishop of Baltimore in 1945, he became pastor of SS. Philip and James Church, serving there until his appointment in Bridgeport.

Among his many roles in the church, Bishop Shehan is chairman of the department of education of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

He also is national chaplain of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Commission On Local Finance Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP) — A special governor's commission on state and local finance has been proposed by the Legislative Council's Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters.

The group, known as the James Committee, said findings of the commission could aid the 1963 General Assembly in dealing with a possible new tax structure for state and local governments.

The committee's recommendation for a new commission would have to be approved by the General Assembly next year.

Flames Sweep Hatchery

POCOMOKE CITY, Md. (AP) — Firemen from five Eastern Shore companies were called Wednesday to battle a hatchery blaze in this Worcester County community.

There were no reports of personal injuries, but several thousand chicks were destroyed.

The fire caused heavy damage to the Small and Bull Hatchery. The loss was estimated at several thousand dollars.

The fire, of unknown origin, was discovered at about 2:45 p.m. by a local newsboy, who notified the owner.

Firefighters battled to keep the blaze from spreading to adjacent areas. A field of dry grain separated the hatchery from a nearby auto agency.

Fire companies called to help battle the blaze, in addition to the local unit, were from Princess Anne, Snow Hill, Stockton and New Church.

In addition to the destruction of some 50,000 baby chicks, approximately one million eggs in incubators scheduled to be hatched in the next several days were lost in the blaze. Also destroyed were an $8,000 auxiliary power unit and a large truck.

Company records were saved, but the hatchery was only partially covered by insurance, according to Roblee Small, a co-owner.

The hatchery employed 15 persons.

Francis V. Du Pont Resigns From PSC

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has given no indication when he will act to fill a two-year term on the Maryland Public Service Commission, a vacancy created by the resignation of Francis V. duPont of Cambridge.

DuPont, named to the PSC in 1957 by former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, said he was resigning on the advice of his doctor. The resignation was announced Wednesday by the governor's office.

Pollack Takes Fight To Court

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore political leader Jack Pollack asked the Circuit Court here Wednesday to strike down the city's Municipal Court legislation and subject it to a referendum in the election of November, 1962.

The enactment, passed by the recent special session of the General Assembly, adds four additional judges to court's bench, bringing the total to 15. The bill is to take effect Saturday.

Pollack's action came in the wake of his own petition drive, which Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan said had produced an insufficient number of valid signatures to force a referendum.

Judge Joseph Allen set Thursday for the hearing on Pollack's suit.

Famous Author Dies

TORONTO (UPI) — Mazo de la Roche, 71, the world famous author who created the Whiteoaks of Jalna, died in her home here Wednesday after a long illness.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA Mc CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — New fall and winter coats are breezy—at arm's length.

Fresh air enthusiasts will warm to the cooling trend: Three-quarter and shorter sleeves.

But we cold-blooded females will have to head for the glove counter or de-moth the muffs.

The case for shorter sleeves is being stated by top designers during the New York couture group's semi-annual press week for the nation's fashion scribes. The event ends Saturday.

At first sight, it seemed the garment makers were being stingy with goods. Not so.

What the coats shown lacked in the sleeves was more than compensated for by generous use of fabric elsewhere. Some coats were so ample in the back they looked like tens walking when the models showed them off.

One major coat shape, the arched cape and cape back, allowed for a slim front effect. A second major shape, the princess flare, was slim through the top of the coat but amply flared at the hem.

Both buttons and pockets were big. Buttons were large, round, oval. The large pockets were patched and flapped.

Fur trim — last fall's zoo-look —figured with some designers, fox, leopard and beaver, in full ring collars and cuffs, were favored.

The designers drew on almost every fabric and available, including spongy, airy woold, ottomans, woven plaids and checks, wool knits, foam back fabrics.

The fake and fantasia fur coats also were in evidence.

Samples: Man-made tiger, white lamb, black fox and brown persian.

Now, for highlights from individual firms which showed Sunday:

Junior Sophicisticates. Designer Anne Klein cut a jacket to look like an overblouse in a grey and white knit daytime ensemble

Pattullo-Jo Copeland. This firm presented the easy silhouette, typical of the silhouette was a fur-trimmed daytime dress of pimento boucle wool with removable sable collar.

Originala. This firm introduced the echo-shaped coat, so called because it echoes the body lines, yet never touches them.

Harvey Berin. The silhouette with this firm was the gently sculptured princess line with slightly elongated torso. Other dresses were moulded in the area of the hips.

Marquise. This firm was inspired by the body conscious silhouette. Clothes fit, but not the snug way.

Parnes. This firm believes suits and coats should have wider shoulders. The wider shoulder, seen in the collection, was unpadded.

Wall Street Views

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are just a bit on the defensive about your Wall Street speculation, take heart. It goes on in the best of fields, including the high brow cultural level.

So says security analyst Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co. Inc., a brokerage house, who points out the hard headed Wall Street investors also looks to other endeavors to increase his money.

"It may sound somewhat ridiculous, but some of the bull markets in recent years in certain pieces of real estate and in oil paintings have dwarfed the rise in many common stocks," Grimm observed.

He was ready with some examples.

At a recent auction in New York City, an early Picasso water color that automotive heir Walter P. Chrysler sold for $18,500 in 1950 brought $47,500 from a New York gallery.

Another Picasso water color that changed hands for $950 in 1950 fetched $18,500.

A Grandma Moses painting, "No Skating for Me," brought a record price of $5,000 for the work of the 100-year-old primitive American artist, Grimm related. The previous top for a "Moses" was $4,100.

"I suppose there probably is more interest in oil paintings now than in all history," he said. "With all the money around, so many people bidding against each other, prices are bound to go up."

Grimm ranged back to the World War II period to explain the heightened interest.

Then, and in the years that followed, hundreds of refugees fleeing from Poland and other European countries brought gems and paintings to this country.

"What could they bring with them? Currency was worthless. Gold, jewels and paintings had fundamental value, and were portable," he said.

A growing number of investors, he said, have become aware of the appreciation potential of works of art, and brought them largely for investment purposes to realize capital gains.

First Tank, Russian

BERLIN (UPI)—The first tank was not invented by the British but by the Russians, a Communist East German magazine said Friday.

The East German Army magazine "Armee Rundschau" (Army Review) told readers the famous British "MK-1" tank that crushed the German lines in France in 1916 was designed after Russian blueprints.

It said the first Russian-built tank was tested in 1915, one year before the "MK-1" made its appearance in the European theater of war.

Ramses III was the first military organizer of Egypt.

Safety shields and guards are there for the protection of the machine operator—they should be replaced immediately after servicing, reminds the West Virginia Farm and Home Safety Committee.

One-Way Traffic Is Planned For Hill Top Drive

An order calling for establishment of one-way traffic on Hill Top Drive, from its intersection with Louisiana Avenue to Oldtown Road, will be introduced at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Police Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming, who will introduce the order, said the regulation will be on a temporary basis, explaining that the order is submitted in connection with the establishment of safety and traffic islands at the Hill Top Drive-Louisiana Avenue intersection.

Parking will be prohibited on the left side of the thoroughfare so as to be in line with similar orders affecting other streets. Police Chief B. F. Gaffney said his department has adopted a policy conforming with State Roads Commission regulations so that parking restrictions will be uniform.

The installation of safety and traffic islands at the three-street intersection has been under study for some time, Commissioner Fleming said. Traffic moving up the Louisiana Street hill to Memorial Hospital or Constitution Park will have the right of way, he explained.

Traffic entering the intersection from Williams Road will be controlled by a stop sign, while "yield" signs will be placed for cars making a right turn from Louisiana Avenue onto Williams Road.

The islands, Police Chief Gaffney said, not only will serve to channel vehicular traffic, but also will serve as a safety factor for persons, especially children, needing to cross the busy intersection.

Chief Gaffney said officials of the Queen City Bus Lines are being contacted so that route changes can be made in time for the firm to notify their patrons.

The Hill Top Drive restriction will help eliminate a rather dangerous traffic pattern at Oldtown Road, Chief Gaffney stated. He explained that many drivers from South Street have to make a hazardous "S-turn" to get onto Hill Top Drive. A routine right-turn after Monday will bring cars to the Hill Top Drive intersection for persons downtown-bound.

Commissioner Fleming said it also is contemplated that parking on Oldtown Road, between Grand Avenue and Hill Top Drive be restricted to one-side only.

The commissioner explained that Oldtown Road is a portion of State Route 51, and that the restriction is in line with SRC stipulations.

Mt. Savage Girl Hurt In Fall

A 13-year-old Mt. Savage girl, knocked unconscious in a fall from her run-way bicycle Tuesday, was in fair condition yesterday in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Katherine Ann Carney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Carroll Carney, Mt. Savage, was taken to the hospital in the community's fire company ambulance.

She was reportedly riding her bike down a steep hill on a county road near her home when it got out of control. Sh fell from the vehicle, receiving facial lacerations, cuts and bruises.

Each day of National Farm Safety Week emphasizes a different aspect of farm safety. Beginning Sunday, July 23, the daily themes are: Reverence for Life; Safety Begins at Home; Agricultural Chemicals; Prevent Falls; Highway Safety; Farm Machinery; and Recreation Safety.

Two Openings For Class At Naval Academy

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., (R-Md. 6th) announced today that after October 1 he will nominate candidates to fill two openings in the Class of 1966 at the U. S. Naval Academy.

The congressman said that one principal nominee and five alternates will be chosen for each position at Annapolis. The successful candidates will enter the academy as fourth class midshipmen in July 1962.

Rep. Mathias said he would accept applications from qualified men until September 15. They must be citizens of the United States between the ages of 17 and 22 years and have a high school diploma.

He commented that his procedure will be to give each applicant a preliminary Civil Service examination in November. Those who pass it will be referred to a board of review, composed of several representative citizens of the Sixth District who will interview each man.

The men selected by the board will be referred to the academy where they will be given the college board examination and final physicals. The academy will make the final selections from those who pass the tests.

Applications may be obtained by writing Rep. Mathias at Suite 133, Old House Office Building, Washington, 25, D. C.

ABL Motor Helps Boost Tiros Rocket

The third stage of the Tiros 111 weather satellite which was sent into orbit early yesterday at Cape Canaveral was powered by the Allegany Ballistics designed Altair rocket motor.

The 92-foot Thor Delta rocket carried a 285 pound Tiros 111 satellite aloft at 5:25 a. m. from the Florida launching pad and the weather-eye is orbiting 400 miles above the earth.

This was the 41st successful solid propellant rocket developed by ABL and the two previous Tiros satellites were also powered in the third stage by the Altair motor.

Both of the two previous Tiros weather-eye satellites are still in orbit and the current Tiros is expected to provide data on the origin, movement and size of hurricanes which develop.

The NASA announced that the successful orbit is another step in the world-wide system of weather observation.

Tiros 111 will transmit thousands of television pictures of the earth and cloud cover for weather analysis. It is hoped that meteorologists will be able to analyze the inception and movement of hurricanes.

A new type wide-angle TV cameras will enable the Tiros 111 to scan wide areas of cloud formations, which the two previous Tiros satellites could not reach.

In addition to its main job of providing TV pictures, this latest Tiros is carrying several pieces of apparatus which makes infrared or heat-detection studies. These are designed to check on the amount of heat received from the sun and the amount it gives back to the atmosphere.

Such studies are of great value in analysis of climatic changes over a long period of time.

Even with all its intricacies and capabilities, there is no such thing as a "perfect" eye. There never will be, for in attaching the optic nerve to the "screen," which is the retina, Nature needed an opening in the pattern of light-sensitive cells. That point is an infinitesimal "blind spot" possessed by all.

Ali Ghan Temple To Sell City Shrine Club Building

The Ali Ghan Shrine City Club, Inc., Tuesday voted to sell its three-story brick building at the intersection of South Centre and Harrison streets.

William C. Holbrook, president, said the membership authorized the disposition of the property, and the removal of its facilities to the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The move is a part of the overall expansion program of Ali Ghan Temple, AAONMS, which includes the construction of a swimming pool and enlargement of the country club.

The club's officers has received a number of written bids for the building, Holbrook said, and will accept more.

The City Club purchased the structure in 1945 from Mountain City Encampment, Woodmen of the World.

The first floor for many years has housed the Commercial Press Company. The Shrine has used the second floor for social quarters and the third floor for a drill hall.

The third floor has been used a number of years as a convention hall for various state organizations meeting in Cumberland.

Social quarter facilities have been provided the city club at the country club, Holbrook added.

The newest thing in tires: ribbons of color on the sidewalls.

New District Forester Is Native Of Canada

A native of Canada who was naturalized at the Allegany County Court House in September 1959 returned to the building yesterday as the district forester for the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks.

He is W.A.C. (Clint) Irwin, who was born at Barrie, Ontario. Irwin will succeed on August 1 R. Thomas Thayer, who resigned the post. Thayer intends to enter business in the Oakland area.

Irwin served during World War II with the Royal Canadian Air Force in England. Following his release from the RCAF he entered the University of Toronto where he obtained a degree in forestry.

He worked one year in Arkansas before coming to Maryland. For a short period he was employed on the Salisbury (Md.) Times. In 1952 he became an employe of the state forestry and parks agency.

For five years he was a service forester in Garrett County and in 1956 was named manager of the 72,000 acres of forest land in Garrett County.

He and his wife have two daughters, and he is treasurer and Sunday school superintendent of the Christ Lutheran Church in Grantsville.

Barnes Named Chief Clerk On B&O Division

Charles L. Barnes has been appointed chief clerk to the Cumberland Division freight agent of the B&O Railroad Company here.

Barnes began his career with the B&O at Clarksburg in 1946 as an employe in the freight office there. In 1954 he was named rate clerk in the division office at Parkersburg.

Barnes was then named chief clerk to the division freight agent at Huntington, W. Va. He comes here from Huntington.

His wife, Joan, and their three children, Carol, 11; David, 8, and Dennis 3, will make their residence here in the near future.

Barnes succeeds G. W. Eichner, who retired recently.

A baby elephant will weigh up to 200 pounds at birth.

Repair Work Is Started In ABL Explosion Area

Duard H. Little, manager of the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Rocket Center, announced yesterday that work has started on repairing and replacing buildings damaged in the tragic explosion of May 22.

Total cost of this work is $57,262 and the work is broken down into three projects.

The Fairchance Lumber Company, Uniontown, has been awarded a contract to build a boiler and utility facility and to repair two powder and cast propellant storage buildings for $33,500. This project will be completed September 1.

A Quonset hut building in the pilot plant area will be constructed by the George F. Hazelwood Company for $20,896.45.

A well house, also damaged in the May 22 blast, will be repaired by the George Construction Company for $2,886.22.

New construction includes five new offices and a wash room on the main building. This contract has been awarded the Hazelwood firm for $27,735. Three of the offices will be utilized by the Navy officers attached to the ABL operation and two by personnel of the Hercules Powder Company which operates the laboratory for the Navy.

Little also said that in order to expedite maintenance with greater safety the Hercules firm has purchased an aerial platform, similar to those used by the telephone company, for use at the laboratory.

The device was bought from the Asplundh Shipper Company of Jenkinstown, Pa. for $8,167.57 and is mounted on a two and one-half ton truck.

The hydraulic 'cherry picker' has a vertical reach of 40 feet and a horizontal reach of 42 feet. Two baskets are mounted on the boom and the device has dual controls with the ability of being operated from the ground or from the baskets.

The baskets are constructed of non-conductive Spiralloy, a product developed by Hercules Powder Company and used in rocket casings. The basket has a dielectric strength of 50,000 volts and is insulated to withstand 45,000 volts.

The aerial device will eliminate the necessity of using scaffolding and ladders in various types of maintenance work on structures at ABL.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Frostburg Girl Falls 16 Feet

A little Frostburg girl narrowly escaped death Tuesday when she fell 16 feet from a second-story window.

The tot, Melissa Ann Sleeman, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sleeman, 289 East Main Street, Frostburg, yesterday was reported in "fair" condition at Memorial Hospital.

The girl was reportedly leaning out a second-floor window when she fell, landing on the right side of her face on a strip of concrete.

The child was taken to Miners Hospital in Frostburg and later transferred to the local institution.

She reportedly sustained lacerations of her lower lip. X-Rays were taken and she was admitted for observation.

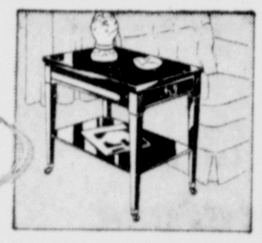

In Paris, a street's name may change several times en route. The Rue St. Honore becomes the Rue du Faubourg St. Honore, Avenue des Ternes and Avenue du Roule. Though the system confuses strangers, Parisians memorize landmarks, such as statues, that identify the points of change.

Tour Group To Leave For Coast Trip

A group of 32 persons will leave Cumberland by train this evening on a cross-country trip on which they will visit many of the tourist attractions in the West.

The group, which will be guided by Matt Grove, Baltimore and Ohio passenger representative here, will leave at 8:40 p.m. today and will return July 29 at 6:15 a.m.

Chicago will be the first stop on the trip and the tour group then will proceed to the Grand Canyon, where they will remain overnight on Saturday.

On Sunday, they will leave for Fresno, Calif., where they will arrive at 8:45 a.m. Monday. From there they will go by bus to Yosemite National Park for an overnight stay.

From there the tour will move north to San Francisco, and side trips to San Joaquin and Muir Woods. The group then returns to Oakland, Calif on Friday, July 21 for the trip to Los Angeles.

After leaving Los Angeles on July 24, the tour will move to El Paso, Texas, and side trips to Juarez, Mexico and to Carlsbad Caverns. The group will leave El Paso July 27 and arrive back in Cumberland two days later.

Arrangements for the trip have been completed by the Conlon Travel Agency.

Volunteer Firemen Schedule Carnivals

Ten volunteer fire departments of Allegany and Garrett counties have scheduled carnivals between July 17 and the end of August.

The schedule:

Fort Hill Lot To Be Surfaced

Bids will be received by the Allegany County Board of Education until 11 a.m. Thursday, July 20, for surfacing the Fort Hill High School parking lot.

The lot will be surfaced with bituminous concrete, according to plans of the school board. This is one of two paving projects which were agreed upon in April by the Board of County Commissioners.

The second planned project is a sidewalk along the Westernport Elementary School property where it borders State Road 135.

Teacher Granted Supplemental Pension

Mrs. Florence M. Hohing, 67 East Main Street, Lonaconing, who retired last month after 20 years as a teacher in Allegany County public schools, was granted a $40 a month supplemental pension by the Board of County Commissioners.

Action was taken after a letter was submitted to the county commissioners by Ralph R. Webster, county school superintendent. Mrs. Hohing has been teaching home economics at Valley High School.

Opening lead: Eight of ♠

In today's hand, watching the spots very carefully permitted declarer to enjoy the rare pleasure of finessing a four on the third round of the suit.

The bidding followed orthodox lines and the final contract was eminently sound. It will be observed that without a club opening declarer would have several chances for his contract.

West chose to open the eight of spades, which from his standpoint did not prove to be a happy choice. The nine was played from dummy and East's jack forced declarer's king. Trumps were drawn to three rounds and then the ten of spades was played. East covered with the queen and South's ace won as the seven dropped from West. At this point the six of spades was high, and West was marked with no more of the suit.

Dummy was entered with the diamond king and the three of spades led and, after East followed with the deuce, the four was finessed. The six of spades then provided a discard for dummy's jack of clubs and declarer took all 13 tricks.

Against a club opening declarer would have been up against a very trying decision as to the manner of attack. Since a spade trick must almost surely be conceded, the choice rested between the immediate club finesse, or taking the first club and trying to ruff out the queen of diamonds, or attempting the diamond finesse to find a parking place for declarer's losing club.

With all hands exposed it will be seen that the winning play on this hand would be to ruff out the diamond queen, though on a purely percentage basis that play would be inferior to the finesse of the diamond jack.

Food Poisoning Cases Blamed On Hollandaise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration Wednesday warned that Hayden's Hollandaise Sauce could cause food poisoning.

It said consumers who have jars or portions of jars of the sauce should destroy them and dealers having the product should stop any further sale.

The manufacturer has been asked to recall the product from the market, FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick said in a statement.

The maker of the sauce is Hayden's Hollandaise Inc., College Point, N.Y. The sauce — a cream sauce used mostly on vegetables—is marketed in a six-ounce lemon-colored bottle with a red label bearing the name "Hayden's Hollandaise Sauce."

The FDA said 25 cases of food poisoning have been reported by the Los Angeles City Health Department and the product in California has been quarantined.

In addition to the Los Angeles lots, FDA said that bacterial contamination (salmonella organisms) capable of causing food poisoning has been found in other shipments.

FDA said that records of the sauce firm showed that shipments had been made to distributors in Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Carnegie, Pa.; Hazleton, Pa.; Chester Heights, Pa.; York, Pa.; Huntington, W.Va., and Towson, Md.

Business 'Club' Goes Its Own Way

A 28-year link between the federal government and the nation's most exclusive and self-perpetuating club of industrialists and financiers, the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce, has been broken.

The BAC's declaration of independence as a private organization is a direct result of its irritation with Commerce Secretary Hodges. President Kennedy, to whom the BAC took its troubles, has indicated that if that's the way the council wants it, it's all right with him.

Mr. Hodges and the BAC didn't hit it off from the start. Among other things, the secretary objected to the council's secrecy, its exclusion of small business representatives from its roster and its choice of meeting places.

Furthermore, Mr. Hodges felt the Secretary of Commerce should have a voice in the council's agenda and in the BAC's appointments and assignments. This gave the council an entirely new complexion that its officers felt was unbecoming. It intends, (therefore, to broaden its advisory services for the asking by any government agency, the Department of Commerce included.

It will continue to serve a useful purpose, along with similar private organizations of businessmen. Perhaps its break with government will even cause it to be more effective than it had been.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

They Do Come Back

General Douglas MacArthur sat through the entire Eisenhower Administration unwanted and unused. It was such a waste of superior ability. It was humiliating for him to see insignificant and inexperienced persons consulted in matters to which MacArthur had devoted his entire life. President Eisenhower chose to do it that way and all that was left for our greatest military mind was to sit in his apartment in the Waldorf-Astoria, occasionally seeing a friend with whom he might discuss the affairs of the world.

Never once was he consulted by President Eisenhower. Oh! Yes! He was asked to lunch on one occasion at the White House. All the big brass were assembled. Nothing was said about the Far East, the subject on which MacArthur is our greatest authority and which, at the moment, was red hot. Afterwards he was asked to go into a private room with President Eisenhower. There the President asked General Douglas MacArthur what the businessmen in New York thought of Eisenhower's economic policies!

And so the General sat out eight long years of futility and frustration. President John Kennedy telephoned to him one day and asked him to come to the White House. Then he telephoned a second time and said not to bother to come to Washington as he, the President, was coming up to New York. MacArthur, always correct in his conduct, said that he would call on the President wherever and whenever he desired. The President would have none of that. He went up to MacArthur's apartment, visited with the General and stayed more than an hour. And the President learned much about life and the world in that hour, perhaps much more than his large collection of advisers could give him.

And so General MacArthur donned his war cap and a military uniform and went to the Philippines, where his father had served and he had served. And there the people love him as a patriarch of their own. And he loves them, for so many years of his boyhood and manhood were spent there. He has returned! And what a glorious welcome he was given.

Anthony Eden too had been obliterated by politics and by the excitement of small men. History, as it unfolds the affairs of man, has long since justified Eden's conduct at Suez; it is obvious that had he been permitted to carry forward the Suez program with France and Israel as partners, the situation in the Near East would have been better for the West today. What John Foster Dulles actually accomplished by his Suez program was that he opened the way for the Russian alliance with Nasser and the emergence of Nasser as a strong man—Nasser, who had already been defeated and might have been eliminated. It has proved not to have been far-sighted to hit down Great Britain and France in the interest of Nasser.

And so Eden was attacked and reviled not only by enemies but by so-called friends and subordinates who seized upon the occasion to set themselves up as great figures. Where are they today? The time has come to account for their wisdom and they have shown that they had been in error. What has become of Anthony Nutting?

The Queen honors Eden by making him an Earl and he will speak his mind in the House of Lords. And it will be found that his contribution will be profound.

And so the tide has come in and recognition has come again to very able statesmen.

The lesson: give history a chance to speak its piece. MacArthur will be remembered as the American military leader who rescued the Pacific from the Japanese; restored Japan to sanity and strength; saved Korea from total Soviet domination and has proved to have been correct concerning Red China. Eden has proved to have been correct concerning Suez. He might have saved his country and all the world much grief.

Small men are ever ready to destroy the reputations and usefulness of great men, but if these men live long enough, they are restored to their correct role in history and men honor them for their wisdom and service. A wonderful example of just that is the respect and even affection which has been the universal award to Herbert Hoover in his later years, when he works valiantly to write a correct version of the history of his time.

Republicans Rescue Kennedy Postal Hike As Democrats Vote Against It

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Most interesting backstage development on Capitol Hill is the manner in which Republicans are rescuing President Kennedy regarding his proposed increase in postage stamps. On the other hand, most Democrats on the House Post Office Committee have voted against their own President.

This puts the Democrats in the paradoxical position of voting for the big postal lobbies and the big beneficiaries from the cheap second-class mail rates, chiefly the mass circulation magazines, such as Time, Life, Look, and Fortune. They, in turn, have been the biggest supporters of the Republican Party.

The general public thinks of an increase in postal rates as chiefly affecting the four cent stamp, which would go up to five cents. However, the postal subsidy paid indirectly to the mass circulation magazines is what really keeps the Post Office in the red. Here is the roll-call of some of these magazines and what they cost the taxpayer:

Life Magazine costs the Post Office Department around $9,300,000 annually to deliver. This is the difference between what Life Magazine pays the Post Office and what it costs to have the mailmen trudge all over town burdened with copies of Life.

Henry Luce, publisher of Life, Time, and Fortune, is a staunch Republican, contributed, with his wife, $30,875 to the Republican Party in 1956. Mrs. Luce was appointed Eisenhower's Ambassador to Italy.

Look Magazine costs the taxpayers around $3,500,000 to deliver. John and Mike Cowles, publishers of Look, have also been strong Republicans.

Readers Digest costs the Post Office around $4,100,000 in second-class mailing losses. De Witt Wallace, publisher of the Digest, contributed, with Mrs. Wallace, $7,250 to the Republican Party coffers in 1956, the latest year for which complete figures are obtainable.

This is just part of the roll-call of big Republican magazine publishers who benefit far more from cheap postal rates than the average John Q. Citizen.

Yet the Democrats on the House Post Office committee voted with the Republicans, while most of the Republicans voted with the Kennedy Administration. They had voted for increased postal rates when Arthur Summerfield was Postmaster General, and wanted to be consistent.

Note 1. — The Democrats who either voted against their own President or were absent and failed to vote, were: Jimmy Morrison, La., James Davis, Ga., John Lesinski, Mich., Thaddeus Dulski, N. Y., Joseph Addabbo, N. Y., Kathryn Granahan, Pa., Arnold Olsen, Mont., Richard Ichord, Tex., Elliott Hagan, Ga. Some are now moving to reconsider.

Note 2. — Most diehard opponent of increased mail rates is good ole Olin Johnston, lumbering, indestructible Senator from South Carolina. Olin got so irked at Texas' Sen. Yarborough when Yarborough signed a letter asking for action on the postal bill that Mr. Y got cold feet and asked to have his name removed from the letter.

JFK's Telephonitis

President Kennedy has what some people call "telephonitis." He likes to call friends on the phone.

Sometimes after dinner he will go upstairs, read the newspapers, then start phoning old friends to get their ideas on this or that. He finds it helpful to get fresh, firsthand reactions; also its' relaxing.

The other day while at his desk, the President got a letter from his Ambassador to India, Kenneth Galbraith, attaching an example of U. S. Information Agency propaganda to foreign newspapers. It took the form of a feature story comparing the United States to a great corporation founded in 1776, which has been building up ever since and paying dividends.

In sending this to Kennedy, Ambassador Galbraith wrote:

"Instead of running for President you could have been head of the merchandise mart."

This referred to the giant Chicago office building owned by the President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

When the letter crossed Kennedy's desk, he picked up the phone, called Edward R. Murrow, his new chief of U. S. Information, jokingly asked him whether he had become a propagandist for American corporations.

Note — The story had been written before Murrow took office.

Merry-Go-Round

Sen. Ken Keating of New York to get the freedom tractors switched to other Latin American countries when Castro tried to blackjack the price. Keating urged: "Instead of transferring tractors for the pound of flesh which Castro demands, we should transform them into pounds of food for the free peoples of Latin America. 'Pounds of Food, Not Pounds of Flesh' should be our motto". . . A tip on saving the taxpayers money: When the President's annual safety awards are presented, don't take up the time of Labor Department employes by herding them into the departmental auditorium as a captive audience. This was done when the last safety awards were presented on behalf of the President. A simpler ceremony could be worked out which wouldn't take the time of 700 government employes who had to spend two hours or so on a presentation they knew nothing about. . . Another way to save the taxpayers' money: Don't send Ray Hill, who has spent years working on foreign aid to Latin America, to Jordan, an Arab state about which he knows almost nothing. . . One of the best U. S. attorneys appointed by Eisenhower was Joseph Bambacus, son of Greek immigrants, who as U. S. Attorney in Richmond, Va., broke the Harry Donovan case, thereby forcing the resignation of several policemen; broke up the syndicate of numbers writers operating in the Pentagon; and indicted Herman Becker, kingpin of Norfolk's gambling.

Moscow Setting Up Puppet Government In Cuba

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Authoritative information has been received here that Russian MIGs have been supplied to the Castro government in Cuba. The warplanes did not arrive in time to be of help to the Cuban dictator before the ill-fated invasion several weeks ago, but the presence today of Soviet war supplies is confirmed.

This step is one that has not been given any publicity. The reasons are not known. Those who do comment on it privately say that the Cuban government requested the munitions and theoretically is free to buy them from any country in the world.

But while, strictly speaking, any government may obtain aid from an ally, the United States does not recognize the right of any European power to gain a foothold in any country in this hemisphere. Originally known as the international law of this hemisphere by the other countries in Latin America.

What the United States now observes, therefore, is a definite attempt on the part of the Soviet government to set up a military base in this hemisphere. The fact that this is being done in collaboration with an existing government does not alter the principle involved. Cuba is 90 miles away from the United States and a relatively short distance from other countries in Central and South America which have free governments.

For some strange reason, some of the Latin-American governments have been hesitant to come out forthrightly against the Soviet infiltration of this hemisphere. Yet, if any one of them got into trouble, it would be pleading with the United States for help. Unfortunately, the Administration here has not crystallized its own Latin-American policy except to announce just before the Cuban invasion that the United States would not intervene militarily. This was, unhappily, construed widely to mean that under no circumstances would the Washington government come to the assistance of a Latin-American government if it should be subverted or, indeed, seized by a foreign power and a puppet government established to carry on its diplomatic relations as well as other functions.

The Soviet scheme is to set up puppet governments everywhere. Moscow has done so in the Balkans. It is preparing to do so in other Latin-American countries, as it has in Cuba.

So the concrete question which faces the United States government is whether a puppet government, established with the economic and military aid of a European power which now sends warplanes to such a country, should be ignored and no steps taken to combat the hostile influence which has been generated. Certainly the relations between the United States and Cuba have grown steadily worse under the inspiration of Soviet advisers who play a prominent part in the Cuban government.

The basic fact is that Cuba today has a puppet government. There have been no elections to give the Cuban people a chance to express themselves. They have been enslaved through methods introduced by Soviet stooges who occupy "advisory" positions in the government at Havana. Thus, a police state, instead of a free government, prevails in Cuba.

The Kennedy Administration has not yet made up its mind what its policy eventually will be in Cuba. But it is difficult to see how there could be a completely hands-off attitude while the Soviets quietly ship in more and more munitions of war to aid the Castro government. The Russian Migs could at any moment pursue guerrilla tactics and damage American cities. The Russian government naturally would disclaim all knowledge and all responsibility, and yet considerable injury might well be inflicted for which no recompense could be obtained.

The Cuban problem has been drifting along without any concrete action by the United States. The shipment of Russian Migs to Cuba, however, accentuates the danger, and it is surprising that even in Congress so little attention is being paid to what is happening 90 miles away from the territory of the United States.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PENTAGON—As some of the Pentagon military brass continue their time-honored occupation of smuggling complaints to favored members of Congress, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's efforts to run the department efficiently run into mounting opposition.

McNamara is having a tough time with some of the generals and admirals because of his insistence that they obey in fact historic control of the military by civilian authority. McNamara has been issuing orders and insisting that the military carry them out instead of bowing to their desires as have some Defense secretaries in the past.

Recently, he was explaining to a Senate committee the economies he had instituted in the department. He was pulled up short by one Senator who noted that he had 11 aides for three principal witnesses before the committee and estimated that their presence had cost the government $366 for that one day.

McNamara chose to laugh off the barb. He sent the Senator (William J. Fulbright) a reply saying the number had been cut from 11 to five.

However, McNamara knows he is being shot at and that 11 is not a large number of "experts" to have present in order to answer Senators' questions about the administration of a department charged with spending more than $40 billion of the taxpayers' money each year.

Many Pitfalls In Underwater Swimming

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Now and then valuable information is obtained from those who have trod the fine line between life and death. For example, many persons lose consciousness while swimming under water. Some drown and others live.

Dr. Albert B. Craig Jr. of Rochester, N. Y., studied several survivors and reported his findings in the Journal of the American Medical association. One was an 18 year old boy who decided to swim three laps under water in a 75 foot pool. He followed the usual procedure of breathing deeply (hyperventilating) for a minute, to accumulate more oxygen and decrease carbon dioxide in the blood.

This young man felt dizzy but dove in. He was turning to complete the third lap when he had an urge to breathe but reminded himself of his goal and decided to go on. When he reached the end of the pool, he failed to raise his head. A fellow student who was watching reached down and grabbed the boy by the hair to get the head out of the water. The young man coughed, gasped, and regained consciousness within a few minutes. He did not remember swimming the last 75 feet.

The other 12 boys reported by Dr. Craig followed the same pattern except that the five who drowned were fished out too late. All were excellent and experienced swimmers and hyperventilated before diving. Those who lived told of having been dizzy before diving and resisted the urge to breathe while swimming. It was at this time that the mind went blank but they were able to finish the distance even tho unconscious.

These boys used up all their oxygen while exerting themselves and when this took place, the mind went blank. The initial hyperventilation also played a role because the lack of carbon dioxide allowed them to swim longer without developing the urge to breathe.

This is risky play and accomplishes no purpose. It is unrealistic to believe that the ability to swim under water is as useful as swimming on the surface. The need might arise when a boat sinks but there is no sense in endangering life by practicing for such a rare possibility. Underwater swimming is not harmful but it should not be overdone.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

After his conquest of Turkey, the legendary Tamerlane, it is told, found out that the local keeper of the exchequer had falsified his books and was getting rich on loot. Tamerlane ordered him to appear with his records, tore them into pieces, and made his terrified subordinate eat them on the spot.

The successor to this unfortunate grafter was a great deal wiser. When Tamerlane demanded that he appear with his financial reports, it turned out that they had all been neatly inscribed on a platterful of griddlecakes!

A salesman stepped gingerly into a publisher's office and asked the receptionist, "Is His Nibs in a good mood this morning?" "I never saw him in a good mood," admitted the receptionist. "I've only been here three years."

Fashionable Platitudes

By Arnold Beichman

John Crosby is on vacation. While he is away, his column will be conducted by guest contributors.

The other day, the Ed Murrow shop (as the U. S? Information Agency is called down there) put out a release describing the unfortunate effects which "recent racial incidents in Alabama" have had on the views held abroad of the U. S.

"Editorial comments around the world," said the USIA, "agreed generally that resurgence of segregation problems had dealt a severe blow to U. S. stature and might adversely affect its position of leadership in the free world."

Now I don't intend to argue the USIA summary of foreign opinion. What irritates me about the release is the implication that if we don't stop these riots and anti-Negro discrimination in the South, we will lose the hearts and mind of millions of people in the disadvantaged countries and, if for no other reason but the cold war, we ought to live up to the principles we espouse.

It seems to me we ought to lay this political nonsense once and for all. Whether we beat up freedom riders or not, whether we integrate or not, whether we turn the South in a bi-racial utopia, none of this can really affect the fortunes of cold war. Neither Khrushchev or Mao will be persuaded that we should be allowed to live if harmony were established in Mississippi.

If American democracy is still a matter of doubt to those millions of Asians and Africians after Hungary, the Khrushchev expose of Stalin's crimes, the East German uprising, Poland, the suppression of freedom in Eastern Europe, Soviet interference in the Congo, Chinese border incursions against India, then let's assume that Asians and Africians, like everybody else, respond to emotional appeals with a fine disregard of logic and fact.

There is a monumental irrelevancy to the theory that if Alabama sheriffs drop their master-race theories, we will win allies, now faint-hearted neutrals, to our side in the battle against Communist imperialism. To me, this demonstrates little understanding of Communism and how to win the cold war. It is certainly not done by reiterating fashionable platitudes which leave the ugly implication that if there were no Soviet menace, we wouldn't have to worry so much about racial discrimination and violence.

Let me say quite loudly and not in extenuation of the mistreatment of Americans in the South, that there is as much, if not more, racialism in Asia and Africa as there is here in the South or North. I have seen this racialism and have heard it defended by at least one Asian statesman, the late S. W. R. Brandaranaike, the assassinated Prime Minister of Ceylon. Discrimination in Asia and Africa, private or public, is based on caste, color, language, politics, culture, and what's worse there are no bi-racial NAACP's or Urban Leagues or CORE's which are fighting racialism.

In Ceylon, the large Tamil minority is victimized by the dominant Singhalese majority which makes no bones about its determination to keep the Tanils a subjected people. They even had a racial riot in 1958 which led to the killing of about 200 Tamils. In India, there is every attempt being made to wipe out caste discrimination but progress is painfully slow, as anyone who has visited an Indian village knows. In Singapore, the Chinese, Malays, and Tamils get along on the surface but they each have their own private clubs with restricted memberships based on race. Indonesia bars commercial signs in Chinese in its capital Djakarta. The Pakistani and Hindus would cut each other to pieces if it weren't for the sanity of Nehru and Ayub Khan. In Uganda, two years ago, I saw a boycott going on by Africians against Indians, who, by the way, are hated in East Africa. The Senegalese loathe the Sudanese and that's why there is no Mali Federation today. There are two million untouchables in Japan, the eta, an aboriginal people who are forced to live in ghettoes, despised, humiliated, and debarred from normal social intercourse.

I could detail many more examples of the racialism which human beings visit upon each other in a world which, as Santayana once wrote, is always "the contradiction of what it is pretending to be." I cite an article by a distinguished Cuban Negro attorney, now in exile, who described in the NAACP's official magazine how Castro has wiped out Negro rights.

This is no suggestion on my part because they discriminate, it doesn't matter if we do. On the contrary, regardless of what Asians and Africans do to their own minorities, we ought to do better, not for any putative political rewards but because it is morally right that America's children ought to be treated generously regardless of the color of the parental skin. I hope I have made it clear that I deplore racialism, but equally do I deplore liberalistic cultural pieties which diminish understanding of the political realities in a cold war-ridden world.

"Strategic" Withdrawal Staged By Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market staged a "strategic" withdrawal Wednesday in the face of mounting concern over East-West relations in the cold war.

With the deteriorating situation in Berlin and stepped-up defense preparations in the public eye, stocks opened lower and slid downward throughout the day to close at their lows.

The retreat, except for a few individual stocks, was orderly as activity dipped to a fairly light 3,070,000 shares from 3,160,000 on Tuesday.

Popular electronics, "glamor" stocks, rails and oils suffered the widest losses. Even national defense issues were mostly lower.

The Dow-Jones industrial average sank 3.68 to 690.79, rails fell a substantial 1.06 to 138.85 and utilities dropped 0.18 to 113.99. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks was down 37 cents.

The 1,278 stocks traded Wednesday featured a wide majority of 738 losers against 291 which bucked the trend. The 22 new lows were double the number of new highs.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Soybean and rye futures sustained heavy losses in active dealings Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Other grains firmed early on a government crop forecast, which fell below trade estimates. Profit-taking later erased most of the gains.

Wheat closed up ⅛ to ⅝, corn off ⅛ to up ¼, oats off ⅛ to up ¼, rye off 4 to 5¾, soybeans off 2 to 4¼.

Volume was erratic and very heavy at the opening. Wheat, corn and oats futures rose sharply in the initial hour on the report issued Tuesday before commission houses and longs took profits.

The report estimated spring wheat production at 126 million bushels, smallest since the drought year of 1936. Corn was figured at 18 per cent below the 1960 yield, and oats down 16 per cent.

Soybean acreage wase stimated at a record 27,100,000 acres, up 15 per cent from 1960. Rye production was set at 10 per cent above average.

Local rye futures were also affected by scattered overnight rain in the Northwest and Canada. Selling was heavy at Winnipeg.

Oats posted new highs for the season in early trading. Commission and local traders sold.

July soybeans opened a cent higher on short covering, but the gain was quickly lost. Commission houses led selling in July, while the large acreage estimate weakened distant deliveries.

Outside markets were mixed.

Suffocated In Fire

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — Alice Chambers, about 80, died Wednesday of suffocation when she was overcome by fumes of a fire which broke out in the bedroom of the home where she lived alone.

Conducts Maneuvers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A small squadron of U.S. warships will circumnavigate South America and conduct anti-submarine maneuvers in conjunction with South American countries during a four-month period beginning August 7.

The squadron will consist of four destroyers, the submarine Clamagore and a number of Neptune patrol planes. The Navy said Wednesday that, beginning with a trip down the West Coast, exercises will be conducted with units from Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile.

A big bettor at Aqueduct recently wagered $10,000 to show on Kelso, the handicap star who won the Suburban and paid $2.50 to show.

ALBERT'S announces a New TENDERNESS in beef!

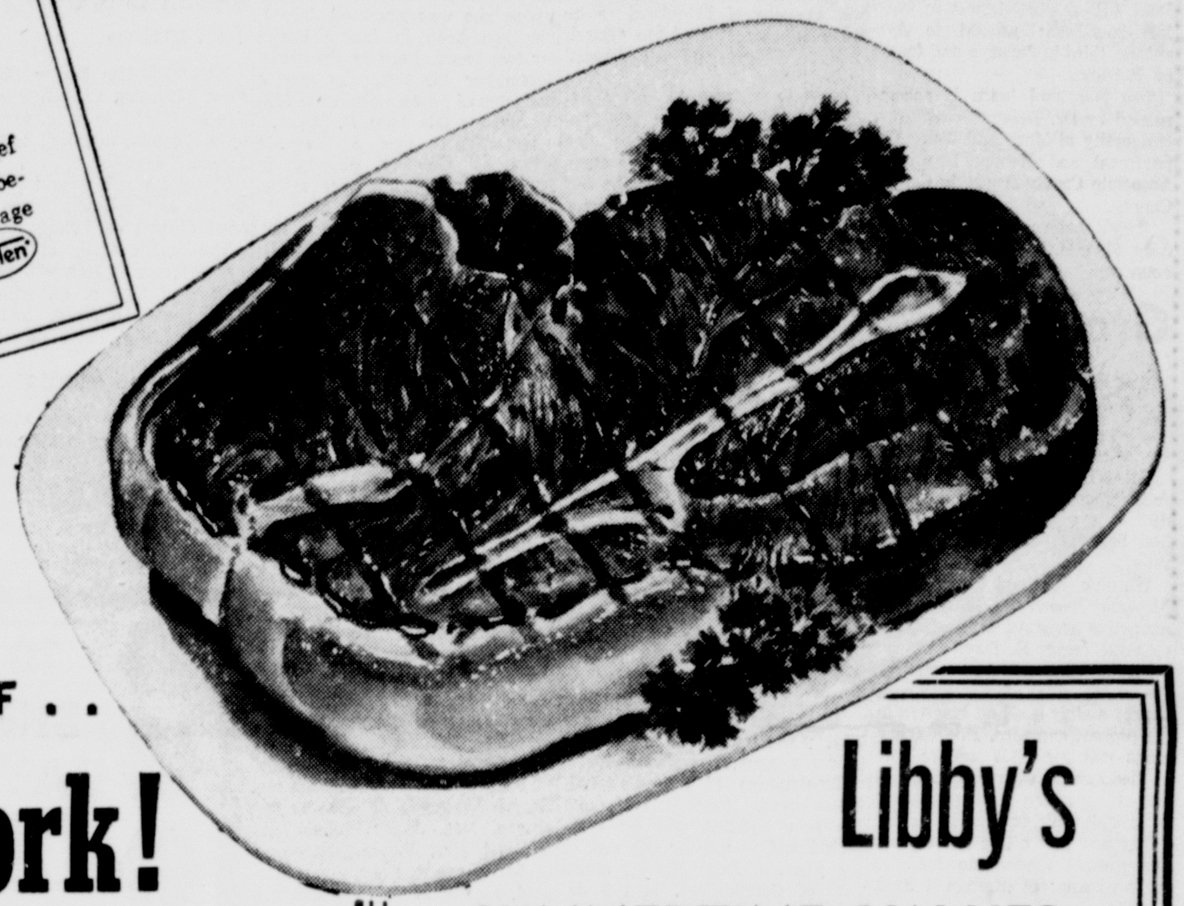

Swift's exclusive new tender process is a method of tendering beef from within, developed and patented by Swift & Company with the approval of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The natural enzymes in meat are supplemented by vegetable protein distributed throughout the meat tissue (this is not a dip or surface method). This new tendering method has no effect on any cuts until cooked in oven, grill, or broiler. Then it releases amazing new tenderness never possible until now.

Lonaconing Episcopalians Plan Cornerstone Ceremony

Parish House Is Gift From Diocese Honor Former Resident Bishop Murray

LONACONING—Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of Maryland, will preside at the cornerstone laying ceremony of the Bishop Murray Memorial Parish House at St. Peter's Episcopal Church next Sunday.

Rev. Leslee E. Schwindt, vicar, said the bishop will make his annual visitation, celebrate Holy Eucharist at 10 a. m., administer the Sacrament of Confirmation and preach.

Following services, clergymen and congregation will proceed to the parish house where Bishop Powell will conduct the service for the "laying of the cornerstone." The cornerstone, a gift, will bear the inscription "Bishop Murray Memorial Parish House, July 16, 1961." A metal box, also a gift, is to be enclosed behind the cornerstone and will hold a Bible, prayer book, a newspaper account from The Cumberland Sunday Times, dated July 9, 1961, and a short history of the parish.

Gift From Diocese

The parish house is a gift from the diocese as the result of money left for a memorial to Rt. Rev. John Gardner Murray, bishop of Maryland and primate, who was born in Lonaconing, August 31, 1857. He received the Sacrament of Confirmation in 1886.

Bishop Murray was made a deacon January 1, 1893 and was ordained to the sacred order of the priesthood April 16, 1894, by Bishop Wilmer of the Diocese of Alabama. In 1903, he returned to the Diocese of Maryland to be installed as rector of the Church of St. Michael and All Angels' in Baltimore.

On May 26, 1909, he was elected bishop coadjutor of the Diocese of Maryland. Before this time, he was elected to two other bishoprics but declined as he felt that his duty was in the Diocese of Maryland. He was consecrated bishop coadjutor in his own parish church of St. Michael and All Angels' on its patronal festival, September 29, 1909. Consecrators were Bishop Paret of Maryland and bishops of Delaware and Washington. The bishop of Atlanta was the preacher.

Contract Awarded

Bishop Paret died January 18, 1911 and Bishop Murray then became the bishop of Maryland. The latter was elected the "presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States" in 1925. It was tradition before this time that the oldest member of the House of Bishops would be the presiding bishop. He served as Presiding Bishop from January 1, 1926, to October 3, 1926, when he died in Atlantic City, while presiding at the church's general convention.

Construction of the parish house began June 7, 1961, and the new building will be completed and in use by the end of the year. S. Russ Minter, architect of Cumberland, is the designer. The contract was awarded to R. G. Robeson, Inc., of Cumberland, for $52,926. Sub-contractors are the L. and Y. Plumbing Company, plumbing; Glen Wright, electrical; Ted Femi, masonry; J. E. Denison and Son, painting, and Largent Construction Company, roofing.

The building will be one of the most modern of its type in Western Maryland. Included in the structure will be a total of eight classrooms, an office, large recreation hall, kitchen, storage rooms and lavatories. Electric baseboard heating will be installed in the classrooms and space heaters will be used in the recreation hall and kitchen. A modern lighting system has also been designed for the entire building.

Plan Kindergarten

The parish house will not only be used for parochial purposes but also will serve the community which has expressed interest in a kindergarten. With the approval of Bishop Powell, Rev. Schwindt has appointed a board of directors for the kindergarten day school to be known as "The Bishop Murray Day School." Serving on the board are Rev. Schwindt, Dr. Leslie R. Miles Jr., Miss Helen S. Smith, James Medvick Jr., Thomas M. Connor and Mrs. Jennie Grahame. The school will be for a half-day each weekday. The teacher will be an accredited kindergarten instructor. Enrollment will be not more than 20 pupils and a small tuition charge will be made.

Also in the planning stage is a youth center. Parents of young people of St. Peter's feel that this would be a worthwhile project and will call upon other parents in the community to help if they are interested.

The recreation hall will have a small basketball court of maple hardwood flooring and it is hoped that interest will run high for a church basketball league in the community.

A reception in honor of Bishop Powell and newly-confirmed members of the church will be held immediately after the laying of the cornerstone.

Maryland 4-H Judging Team Wins In England

Maryland 4-H Dairy Judging Team placed first for the seventh year in International Dairy Judging at the Royal Show in Cambridge, England, July 5, 1961, according to W. Sherard Wilson, State 4-H Club Agent at the University of Maryland.

The Maryland team representing United States placed first; England second; Wales third.

Curtis Day, Damascus, won the distinctive honor of high scoring individual in the entire show with a total of 377 out of 400 possible points, James Claggett, Germantown, placed second.

Frank C. Downey, Williamsport was high scoring individual in judging Shorthorn; Billy J. Heath, Reisterstown, first in judging Holsteins; Curtis Day, first in judging Jerseys and James Clagett, first in judging Ayrshires.

As a judging team, the Maryland 4-H'ers placed first in judging Shorthorn; second in Ayrshires; third in Jerseys and fourth in Holsteins.

The Maryland team is accompanied by Dr. Robert Schabinger, University of Maryland Dairy Department and Robert L. Jones, Associate County Agent in Carroll County.

They'll return to the USA on July 31 after a visit to several countries.

Grantsville Assured New Post Office

GRANTSVILLE — Postmaster A. Emmons Warnick said yesterday a new post office building has been authorized for Grantsville.

Warnick received word from Michael Monroney, Washington, executive assistant to Postmaster General James E. Day.

The building will be located on the north side of Main Street, approximately one-half block from the present quarters. Preliminary plans call for 2,137 square feet of floor space with ample facilities for parking and movement of postal vehicles.

The new post office will replace the present inadequate facilities at the corner of Main and Bank Streets.

The Post Office Department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership while leased to the federal government, and the owner will pay local real estate taxes.

Plans and specifications for the structure, as well as bidding forms and other pertinent data, will be made available to prospective bidders at an early date, at which time the Post Office Department will advertise for bids. The site option will be transferred to the successful bidder who will purchase the land, construct the building and lease it to the department on a long term basis.

Returns Home

LONACONING — Miss Andrea Bowden is home from attending the National Future Homemakers of America convention at St. Louis, Mo. She was alternate to the state secretary.

100 Enrolled In Vocational Training Classes At Keyser

KEYSER—About 100 persons are currently participating in the area vocational training program sponsored by the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce and the Mineral County Board of Education.

Thirty women began training Tuesday in commercial sewing classes under the supervision of Mrs. Bernice Miller. Fifteen are enrolled in the morning class and 15 others in the afternoon course. The classes will continue for five weeks or an equivalent of 100 hours.

The sewing school has been set up at the Vo-Ag Shop in the school bus garage, South Keyser, where 18 men are already enrolled in a carpentry class.

Another group of men is taking a course in drafting, being taught three nights a week in the Industrial Arts Department at the high school.

Twenty-two other men are being trained as lens machine operators in two separate classes being conducted at Spectronics in West Keyser. The ophthalmic lens grinding training is under the guidance of Gordon Robinson, who is in charge of the glass lens division of Spectronics, and Domenick Calemine, foreman.

Ten men in the morning class are learning to run the concave side of the operation while 12 others in the afternoon class are concentrating on the convex side. The classes will continue for three weeks or a total of 120 hours.

After being taught to run all of the various lens-making machines they will be qualified to seek employment in any of the lens-making plants of the country.

Huge Limestone Deposit Opened In Pendleton Co.

Moorefield Lions Hear Report On Big Operation

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Fred Western, superintendent of the Germany Valley Limestone Co., spoke to the Moorefield Lions Club Monday night at Hotel McNeill on operations in the huge calcium carbonate deposit in Pendleton County.

Mr. Western said the deposit is one of the largest in the east of almost pure calcium carbonate or limestone. It is a mile long, a quarter of a mile wide and 60 feet thick. He said the deposit is right on the surface and the formation is flat instead of at an angle or slanted, which makes it easier to work.

Western said there is enough 98½% pure material to keep the operation going for 300 years before having to go underground and that present production is a thousand tons a day.

Produced in the operation are sizes of the product from four inches down to a dustlike product used in agriculture and in mines. Western said the principal products are agricultural limestone, sand for use in construction, in glass making and in steel mills and agregates used in roads.

The mill was started in 1959 and was in production in October last year. It presently employs 16 men. Western showed a boxfull of limestone formations and said limestone is the most important non-metalic material taken from the earth. Excluding coal, it represents three fourths of the commercial production of materials.

Chester B. Bishoff, newly installed president of the Lions, announced a preliminary list of committee appointments. W. C. Harper, chairman of the Lions Club barbecue, reported the huge outdoor affair will be held both Thursday and Friday August 3 and 4 during the West Virginia Poultry Festival.

Plans were completed for the Harrisonburg, Va. Good Neighbor Tour Caravan in Moorefield July 26.

Bishoff announced a 25th anniversary of the Keyser Lions Club banquet and ladies night will be held at the Upper Potomac Valley Shrine Club at Burlington, July 20. The next meeting of the club will be on the 24th of the month instead of the 17th.

Some of the nicest European souvenirs were born to be worn!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Europe Offers Ready-to-Wear Souvenirs

When in Rome this summer, why not do as so many American visitors do — choose your souvenir from Italy's fabulous collection of fashion specialities. For every faraway country represented in your wardrobe, you can wrap yourself, literally, in happy memories for many seasons to come.

The European ready-to-wear market has definitely expanded, to the delight of tourists and buyers alike. (Even the haughtiest Parisian couturiers have come around to meed the demands of popular appeal.)

This means that American buyers will be bringing home bigger and better selections—with smaller price tags — for our own import displays. So even the stay-at-homes will have their chance to adopt a little of the Old World into the new fall and winter costumes.

Since each country can boast individual talent, I've drawn up a brief fashion-itinerary for those of you who plan to enjoy first-hand the fun of souvenir-hunting abroad. You won't want to miss a single opportunity to see the remarkable craftsmanship and to try the styles so characteristic of each land you visit.

Will London be your first stop? Take the time to sightsee those singular sturdy British coats — strictly English styling in throughly British fabrics. No Paris copy-catting here. Tweedy sportswear and original British jersey co-ordinates are other classics to examine.

Nearby Ireland offers an imaginative approach to the homespun look ... with heavy handmade laces in blouses and gowns, rough tweeds and bulky handknits in everything from sweaters and skirts to coats and suits — and the finest of soft, smooth lines.

Bright colors and bits of fur trimming define many of the coats and suits with that "where else but Paris" look. In this capitol of Chic, you'll be attracted to "two-jacket" suits (one is a ¾ coat) and clever coat-and-sheath matched co-ordinates.

In Switzerland, look at the ski wear. Shop in Germany for leather. Tend to your knitwear in Italy ... especially the winter sportswear with its fitted pants, long sweaters, hooded ponchos and dramatic wraparound capes. Save cottons until you come to Sweden.

Wherever you shop, you'll want to keep your color type in mind. Send today for my pamphlet called, "Your Color Type." Address your request to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. It should be delivered within two weeks.

Downes Angrily Denies Ring Title Handed Him

Fans Argue Over Way Fight Ended

By GEOFF MILLER

LONDON (AP) — Terry Downs, new co-holder of the disputed world middleweight title, angrily denied Wednesday night that the crown had been handed him on a plate.

Re-living Monday night's scene at Wembley Indoor Stadium, when America's Paul Pender retired with a cut over his left eye after the ninth round, the fighting ex-U.S. Marine thundered:

Had Pender Licked

"I had Pender licked. The return fight clause had nothing to do with it.

"Would you give up a world title like that? I'd fight for it till I dropped."

But boxing fans in Londons' pubs still argued over the way the fight ended.

Pender, 31, from Brookline, Mass., had the better of the ninth round. He went back to his corner with blood trickling from the cut over his left eye. And the next moment referee Ike Powell was raising Downes' righthand in victory.

Under the terms of the contract, Downes can't touch a penny of his $28,000 purse until he has given Pender a return fight in the United States within 90 days.

Writers Are Amazed

Sports writers said they were amazed when Pender quit.

"Champions must never quit," wrote Bill McGowran in the London Evening News. "A stern ring tradition demands that they sell their titles dearly and go down fighting to the last gasp. But not Pender. He handed over his world championship on a plate."

But Pender, who was recognized as world champion in New York, Massachusetts and Europe, reiterated his explanation that he had cuts over both eyes, felt weak and couldn't go on.

Relaxing at his hotel, Pender said:

"I had had enough. I dont' know what was the matter. I trained hard for this fight and felt certain of myself. But I had no zip.

"Any way, I live to fight another day."

Former Open Champs Head Sunday Clinic

Frank Souchak, Jack Brand Will Appear In 18-Hole Match

Four of the Pittsburgh area's foremost golfers, including two former National Open champions, will conduct a clinic and appear in an 18-hole exhibition match on Sunday, July 16, at the Maplehurst Country Club, Frostburg, it was announced last night.

Heading the quartet of stars is Lew Worsham, pro at the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh, and the Coral Ridge Country Club, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who captured the National Open championship in 1947 and won the World Golf Tournament in 1953 and Sam Parks, Jr., member of the Oakmont Country Club, who was the National Open winner in 1935.

Frank Souchak, former All-America football player at the University of Pittsburgh, low amateur in the 1953 National Open, and brother of Mike Souchak, the nationally known pro, and Jack Brand, son of Fred Brand, former Pittsburgh Area pro and Tri-State PGA president for 25 years, round out the group of four coming to Maplehurst.

Set Oakmont Record

Worsham, pro at Oakmont, which will be the site for the National Open in June 1962, set a new course record at Oakmont with a nine-under-par 32-31—63 on July 1, 1961, bettering the mark formerly held by Sam Parks, Jr. In 1951, Lew teamed with Ted Kroll to win the International Four-Ball championship and has captured many other tournaments.

Parks, former member of the U.S. Ryder Cup team and Pennsylvania State Open Champion, and now a member of the Oakmont Club, is employed as district sales manager of American Steel and Wire, a division of the U.S. Steel Corporation.

Souchak, who played in two Rose Bowl games with Pitt, was Oakmont champion seven times, former West Penn Amateur champion, and is recognized as one of the longest hitters in the game. Frank is now in the oil and gas business in the Pittsburgh area.

Captained Penn State

Brand is a former captain of the Penn State University golf team, won the Oakmont title twice and now is engaged in the insurance business in Pittsburgh. He is a brother of Fred Brand, member of the board of directors of the U.S. Golf Association.

Sunday's clinic is scheduled to get under way at 11 a.m., and will be followed by the exhibition match.

The attraction is the biggest event ever scheduled for the Maplehurst Country Club and is expected to attract a large gallery. The public is extended a cordial welcome. There will be no admission charge.

Sikes Sets Pace In Public Golf

DETROIT (AP) — Medalist Dick Sikes, 21, an Ozark mountaineer who plays Russian roulette with five putters, knocked off two opponents in the first two rounds of match play in the 36th National Amateur Public Links Golf Championship.

The University of Arkansas junior led 16 survivors into Thursday's round by blasting aside Forrest Jones, an Indiana University golfer, and Owen Douglass Jr., of Honolulu.

The 16 are left from a field of 64 which started match play Wednesday morning. The field will be trimmed to four by Thursday night.

College All-Stars Start Training For Game With Eagles

CHICAGO (UPI) — The 1961 college all star team of 56 players opens a three-week training camp Thursday in preparation for the 28th annual game with the best of the National Football League, the champion Philadelphia Eagles, in Soldier Field Aug. 4.

Otto Graham will coach the collegians for the fourth straight season, aiming for his second triumph.

Twenty five on the roster weigh over 230 pounds with the heaviest man tackle Earnest Ladd from Grambling at 285.

Notable linemen on the roster were ends Mike Ditka, Pittsburgh; Marlin McKeever, Southern California; Earl Faison, Indiana, and Elis Kimbrough, Northwestern; tackles Billy Shaw, Georgia Tech; Ken Rice, Auburn, and Bob Lilly, Texas Christian; guards Jim Tyrer, Ohio State; Bruce Tarbox, Syracuse, and Myron Pottios, Notre Dame; and centers Mike Pyle, Yale, and Greg Larson, Minnesota.

Standout backs included were Joe Bellino, Navy; Tommy Mason, Tulane; Tom Matte, Ohio State; Bob Crespino, Mississippi, and George Flemming, Washington.

Plans Parimutuels For Auto Racing

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) —Curtis Turner, automobile racing driver who resigned last month as president of Charlotte Motor Speedway, announced Wednesday he and a group of associates were starting an enterprise to organize parimutuel betting on car races.

West Virginia was mentioned as one of the states where he hopes to operate.

Wins Tournament

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI)—Jane Martin of Pittsburgh's Oakmont Country Club set a new Lakeview Country Club course record here Wednesday when she shot an 81 to win the annual women's invitational golf tourney.

The old record was an 83 shot by Mrs. Charles Dent of Morgantown two years ago. Women's par at Lakeview is 76.

Tourney Transfer Shocks Chamber

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Chamber of Commerce representatives say they are "shocked" at a decision of the NCAA tournament committee to transfer the eastern regional basketball tournament away from here where it had grossed $200,000 during its four-year stand.

Tom Scott, who along with John Belk, went to the NCAA meeting Tuesday at Colorado Springs, Colo., Tuesday, said they were unaware of the committee's decision until it was announced publicly.

The NCAA officials said that all tournaments, except the finals, would go back to college campuses. The eastern regionals will be played at the University of Maryland.

During the four years the tournament was an attraction in Charlotte, all 11,500 seats at the Charlotte Coliseum were sold for the games except one year.

Willie Mays Sued By Wife

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Mrs. Margherite Mays, wife of San Francisco Giants' outfielder Willie Mays, filed suit Wednesday for separate maintenance.

She said Mays was "guilty of extreme cruelty and acted in an indifferent, hostile and arrogant manner." She said he ignored her at home and spent most of his evenings away.

Mrs. Mays asked $3,500 a month support for herself and their son Michael Rosiny Mays, 2½. She asked sole custody of Michael.

Maplehurst Tourney Ends In 3-Way Tie

Three twosomes finished in a tie for first place in Wednesday's Best Ball Partner Golf Tournament held at the Maplehurst Country Club.

Deadlocked for the lead with net 32s were Charley Miller and Robert Porter, Jake Michaels and Bill Fisher and Paul Moulden and Henry Morrissey.

Fourteen members played in the tourney which was curtailed by rain.

Ben Hughes was closest the pin on No. 4 and Robert Porter was closest the pin on No. 7.

Tennis Bigwigs Delay Decision On Open Meets

Problem Is Shelved Until 1962 Session

STOCKHOLM (AP)—There will be at least another two-year wait before the International Lawn Tennis Federation officially sanctions open tournaments in which amateurs and professionals compete together.

That was the only thing decided Wednesday as 70 delegates from 41 countries met for a one-day session and agreed to experiment with a restricted list of open meets and then voted that the problem be considered fully at the next meeting of the ITLF in Paris July 11, 1962.

The first resolution passed the delegates by a vote of 133-101 and the second was approved 166-66. In addition to the 70 delegates, various official observers also were permitted to vote.

J.E. Griffith, president of the British Tennis Association, made the announcements to the press after the day-long session.

He gave the votes but did not break them down. Prior to the meeting it was known that the United States, England and France supported the idea of open tournaments but that Australia, which previously had favored them, opposed the idea.

Sweden's delegates were expected to insist that the delegates go all the way and make all tournaments open, somewhat on the plan of golf tournaments.

Gary Lee's single following walks to Tommy Zembower and Donald Maiers produced the run that gave Manager Patsy Algieri's Jaycees a 4-3 decision over the Bedford Road Optimists in an extra inning Hot Stove Baseball League game yesterday at Mason Road Field.

The victory advanced the Jaycees a half game behind second place Bedford Road and 3½ games in the rear of the pace-setting Cumberland Optimists.

The win was the Jaycees' fifth by the margin of a single run.

After the Jaycees took the lead in the top of the eighth inning, Bedford Road threatened when Shircliffe led off with a triple but Madden, who was inserted to run for him, was nailed off third base when an attempted squeeze play failed.

Jimmy Cornelius kept seven hits well spaced, walked three and struck out four to register his fourth win against two setbacks. Lee Miller went the route for Bedford Road and suffered his second loss against five victories. He yielded only four hits, including triples by Lee and Maiers, mowed down 11 via the strikeout route and gave up a total of eight passes.

Lee had two of the Jaycees' four safeties and starred in centerfield. Miller rapped a triple and single and Shircliffe larruped a three-bagger and double for the losers.

Miller turned in the best fielding play for Bedford Road by spearing a line drive and converting it into a double play.

Cincy Opens Twelve-Day Home Stand

Win Would Give NY Lead; Pirates On West Coast

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International

The front-running Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds get set for short home stands that may help them to boost their league leads when the major leagues end this All-Star holiday and get back to business on Thursday.

The Reds, who have zipped off to a five-game lead that has the rest of the National League worried, entertain the suddenly-dangerous Chicago Cubs Thursday in a night game that opens a 12-day home stand.

The Tigers, only a half-game ahead of the homer-happy New York Yankees in the American League, won't return to action until Friday when they host the Minnesota Twins at night in the opener of a more modest seven-game home stand.

Yankees At Chicago

In fact, Detroit may find itself in second place by the time it starts playing again. The Yankees, who are actually one game ahead in the vital "games lost" column, can move eight percentage points ahead of the Tigers if they beat the Chicago White Sox Thursday night at Chicago.

Manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees, who insists his team is in "mighty good position" for a stretch run even if it was behind at the All-Star break, has nominatet young righthander Bill Stafford (7-4) to nail down the win that would mean first place.

The Yankees resume their league warfare with nine wins in the last 11 games. But all of these were at home, and they are now hitting the road — where they have not been nearly as successful—for 12 straight games.

Birds Trail By Seven

The rest of the American League is distant, with third-place Baltimore seven games out, and must streak to go back into contention.

The National League fears that the Reds, like a horse with lots of early speed, may have "stolen" too big a lead to be caught, especially since their red-hot pitching shows no signs of cooling off. But the Cubs have five straight wins and have come alive in batting.

Manager Fred Hutchinson is ready for renewed warfare with 12-game-winner Joey Jay, 11-game winner Bob Purkey, and nine-game winner Kent Hunt who are giving the Reds their best pitching punch since the pennant days of Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer. The Reds have won nine of their last 10 games and continuing a hot pace for just a little longer could put them a tremendous distance ahead of the rest of the field.

Pirates On Coast

The second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, five games out, have lost three of their last four games and have to get going again. The defending World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates are sending nine-game winner Bob Friend in quest of their fourth straight win Thursday night at San Francisco.

Chief among the individual races commanding attention is Roger Maris' assault on Babe Ruth's record of 60 homes in a single season. The Yankee right-fielder has 33 homers in 83 games, which puts him 12 games ahead of Ruth's record pace in 1927, but sluggers have always found the home stretch too difficult in attempts to break Ruth's mark.

Whitey Ford of the Yankees, with a 16-2 mark, seems likely to become the first hurler in the majors to reach 20 wins for the season.

Bucs Open 12-Game Home Stand July 19

Free State Riders Plan Cycle Hill Climb July 23

Program Of Four Events Scheduled For Kline Farm

The Free State Riders Motorcycle Club, a newly formed local organization, will sponsor a hill climb Sunday, July 23, at 2 p.m., on the Kline Farm at Wiley Ford near the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

A field of 25 to 30 professional and amateur riders is expected to compete in the four events, two professional and two amateur — on the program.

A majority of the riders will be from Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Joseph W. Hemmis, Cumberland's hill climbing ace and 1960 national point champion, who has won seven of 10 events this season, will be among the professional contestants.

The first hill climb this year was held by another organization in April on the Hazen Road.

30th All-Star Game Is Called Most Inartistic

Played Like Little Leaguers, Frick Says

By HAL WOOD
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The horror of the 30th All-Star game was past history Wednesday — and the guess is that it will go down in the records as the most inartistic "classic" ever perpetrated on the unsuspecting public.

"It was the all-time worst major league baseball game I ever saw," said Dutch Reuther, veteran scout and former big time hurler.

Some of the American leaguers blamed the bad play on the late-arriving winds of Candlestick Park after they took a 5-4 beating in the 10th inning.

But some of the record-setting seven errrors came when the sun was hot and there wasn't the trace of a breeze.

Amazed At Ineptness

When Orlando Cepeda of the Nationals and Tony Kubek of the Americans made their miscues, the weather was balmy and couldn't be blamed for anything other than the heat prostrations in the stands.

Veteran baseball men were amazed at the ineptness of the so-called "all-stars."

"'It looked like the married men vs. the single men at the annual picnic," wrote Prescott Sullivan in the San Francisco Examiner. "All stars? phooey!"

Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles, who is a native San Franciscan, said he'd quit rather than play baseball in Candlestick Park.

"It's a beautiful park — but the winds ruin it," said Gentile.

Fans Grumbling

Some of the fans, who had arrived in a festival mood, were grumbling when they left.

"If I didn't know better, I would be thinking that the Nationals were purposely trying to kick the game away in the ninth," said one fan. "How could they make those three errors — especially the one by Don Zimmer, who has one of the surest arms in baseball."

The other two errors in that ninth were by Ken Boyer at third, who said he was trying to "aim" too much because of the wind; and by Smoky Burgess, who dropped a little pop fly by home plate.

But it took Commissioner Ford Frick to sum it up best:

"I didn't think either of those teams was going to win it. They played like little leaguers."

Pen-Mar Loop Game Reset For July 19

Rain washed out the Pen-Mar Baseball League game scheduled yesterday at Barrelville between the Frostburg Merchants and the Barrelville Old Exports.

John C. Sullivan, president of the Frostburg team, announced that the game has been rescheduled for Wednesday, July 19, at 6 p. m., at Barrelville.

Frostburg hosts Flintstone Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

Knicks Sign Budd

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dave Budd, former Wake Forest College star, Wednesday signed for his second season with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association.

Budd was the 10th Knick to sign, following veterans Willie Naulls, Richie Guerin, Johnny Green, and Phil Jordan, and rookies Sam Stith, Whitey Martin, George Blaney, Cleveland Buckner, and Bill Smith. The Knicks open training at Upsala College, East Orange, N.J., Sept. 18.

One All-Star Game Favored

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Baseball executives have tentatively agreed to return to one All-Star game annually, the Herald-Express said Wednesday.

The action was taken at San Francisco, scene of Tuesday's All-Star game, baseball writer John B. Old, reported. The gist of his story:

Formal action will be taken at Boston July 31 when representatives of the 18 clubs and both major leagues meet for this year's second All-Star game. There have been two such games in recent years to raise money for player benefits.

Insurance company actuaries now say sufficient money can be raised from one game to give players the annuity benefits they seek, and to include team managers.

Ralph Neves, the jockey who now ranks fifth among all-time U. S. riders in number of victories, once was pronounced dead after a spill on the track.

Dan Indians Top A's, 6-0, And Tie Braves For Lead

Manager Oscar Leasure's Indians tied the Braves for first place in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League by beating the Athletics yesterday at Constitution Park by the score of 6-0.

The deadlocked leaders own 7-2 records.

Ralph Leasure went the route for the Indians, yielded only two hits, struck out seven and recorded his fourth win of the season against a single loss.

Long obtained both hits for the Athletics, a double and single.

Alvin Harris smacked a two-bagger and single and Ralph Leasure had a double for the Indians.

Score:

Athletics	000 000—0	2	1
Indians	032 10x—6	7	2

Norris and Ashby. Ralph Leasure and Alvin Harris.

Former College Cager Sentenced To Prison

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Walter (The Ox) Osterkorn, a former Syracuse Nationals basketball player and one-time University of Illinois star, will serve four to eight years in Attica State prison for a $2.50 theft.

Osterkorn, 32, had been indicted on a total of 40 counts involving thefts from Syracuse and suburban homes. He was sentenced Tuesday for the $2.50 theft by Onondaga County Judge Donald H. Mead.

About $17,000 worth of allegedly stolen goods was found in his home, police said. Osterkorn's wife Maryanne is currently under indictment on six counts of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Ecuador Tests U.S. Net Team

Davis Cup Squads Clash In St. Louis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four American tennis players will meet Ecuador in the second round of the American zone Davis Cup matches in St. Louis this weekend.

The United States will be represented by Bernard J. Bartzen, Dallas, Tex.; Charles McKinley, St. Ann, Mo.; R. Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Cal.; and Allen E. Fox, Los Angeles, Cal.

W. Harcourt Woods, chairman of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, and David L. Freed, captain of the USLTA Davis Cup team, made the selections.

They said Bartzen, winner of the Dallas and Tulsa invitation tournaments, is the leading player. McKinley reached the final round of the Wimbledon tournament last week and will team with Ralston in doubles.

Fox is captain of the UCLA team and recently won the intercollegiate championship.

The team from Ecuador is made up of Miguel Olvera, Eduardo Zuleta and Louis Ratti.

Canadian Open Paced By Pratt

Seattle Pro Shoots Four-Under-Par 66

WINNIPEG (UPI) —Bob Pratt, a touring pro for only 10 weeks, fired a four-under-par 66 over a rain-soaked Niakwa country club Wednesday to take the early first round of the 1961 Canadian Open golf championship.

The 24-year-old Seattle, Wash., native who plays out of Houston, Tex., had nines of 32 and 34 over the 6,419 - yard, par 36-34 — 70 course.

Jon Guston, 29-year-old pro from Gladwyne, Pa., came in with a 34-32—66 to tie Pratt for the lead.

With only one-third of the field in, Pratt held a one-shot lead over Marty Furgol (35-32), Cog Hill Ill.; Dave Hill (36-31) Denver, Colo.; and Howie Johnstone (34-33), Cog Hill, Ill., George Knudson, the recent hometown bridegroom who now plays as a pro out of Toronto, was two shots back with a 33-35—68. Also in with 68's were Bob Goalby, Crystal River, Fla., and Tom Nieporte, Bronxville, N.Y. Another former home two swinger, Frank Whibley of Kitchener, Ont., and Bobby Nichols of Midland, Texas were in with one-under 69's.

Five others shot par 70's in the opening round played in an intermittent drizzle following a steady, light all-night rain; Dean Refram, Medinah, Ill., Bruce Crampton, Sydney, Australia; Frank Wharton, Dallas, Tex., Al Balding, Toronto, Ont.; Dick Stranahan, San Leandro, Calif.; and George Schneiter, Billings, Mont.

Pitt Plays Navy, Army In 1962

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For the first time in Pitt football history both the Army and Navy will be on the Panthers' schedule in the same year.

The 1962 schedule was announced Wednesday by Athletic Director Frank Carver and lists Navy for Sept. 27 at Norfolk and Army for Nov. 17 at home.

Phils Lose Roberts With Knee Injury

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Robin Roberts was placed on the sidelines Wednesday for a knee injury and is not expected to be available for at least 30 days.

The 35-year-old veteran hurt his knee in a slide to second base July 2 in a game the Phils lost to the Dodgers, 2-1. The Phillies said the injury was aggravated during last weekend in Chicago.

A Phils spokesman said Roberts, who has a 1-8 card this season, may rejoin the lineup in about one month if the injury responds to treatment.

Palmer Has 70, Player 73 In British Open

Ken Nagle Is Among Three Leaders At 68

By HENRY W. THRONBERRY

BIRKDALE, Eng. (UPI) — Favored Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., struggled with his putter all the way Wednesday in shooting a two-under-par 70 that left him two strokes behind the leaders in the first round of the British Open golf championship.

But Palmer's arch-rival, U.S. Masters champion Gary Player of South Africa, was even worse off with a one-over-par 73 that left him five strokes off the pace.

Leaders at four-under-par 68 after the first circuit in the 72-hole championship flight were Dai Rees, the little Welsh captain of the British Ryder Cup team, with 32-36; Harold Henning of South Africa, with 33-35; and defending champion Kel Nagle of Australia, the man who beat Palmer by one stroke last year, with 34-34.

Right on their heels at 69 were another trio — David Miller and Norman Johnson of England, and Jean Garialde of France.

Palmer Disgusted

Palmer, who said, "I am pretty well disgusted—I just couldn't putt," shared the 70 slot with five Players. They were Englishmen Sam King, Lionel Platts, and Neale Cole, South African Alan Alan Brookes, and Scot John MacDonald.

Of the other five Americans who qualified for the championship flight, Dick Chapman of Palm Beach, Fla., had 36-36—72, Jack Isaacs of Langley Air Force Base, Va., had 38-35—73, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, had 37-38 — 75, world Senior champion Paul Runyan of La Jolla, Calif., had 39-36—75, and trick shot artist Joe Ezar of Miami, Fla., had 40-43—83.

The field will be cut to a maximum of 50 players after Thursday's second round.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends, relatives and neighbors who were so kind following the death of our mother, Mrs. Alice V. Trout. Thanks to those who donated their cars and especially to the city police department for their rapid and efficient answer to our call.

THE CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles A. Jewell, who left us 8 years ago today, July 13, 1953.
When we step beyond life's Gateway
As our loved one now has done,
We shall find a land of beauty
With a never setting sun.
We shall greet old friends and new ones
In that land where all are blessed,
And we'll meet beyond life's Gateway
All the ones we loved the best.
Dearly missed by his Wife & Family

Frostburg Office Is Burglarized

Frostburg City Police today began investigation of the second breaking and entering of an optometrist's office within weeks of each other in that community.

The office of Dr. William Powers, at 65 East Main Street, was broken into Tuesday between 5 and 7 p. m., police said, and approximately $100 was taken.

Frostburg authorities stated that Dr. Powers told them he was at his home for dinner and he left the waiting room door at his office open, but that he locked the door to his office.

Police said entry was gained by prying the office door open, and that the intruders evidently were acquainted with the location where the money was kept as nothing else was bothered.

On June 28, the office of the late Dr. Harry Teter, dentist, was illegally entered while his secretary was out, and more than $100 was taken. Police said that nothing else in Dr. Teter's office was disturbed either.

At Least 3 Children Lose Lives In Fire

Blaze Destroys Double House At Gilmore; 11 Persons Escape

Three young children died and another is reported missing in a fire which destroyed a two-story frame house last night at Gilmore, just south of Midland on State Route 36.

The children were tentatively identified as Pamela Marie Buskirk, 11 months; James Robert Buskirk, 3; and Linda Kay Buskirk, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Buskirk.

The body of one of the victims was recovered by firemen from the front bedroom about midnight, while the house was still on fire.

The bodies of the two other children were recovered by firemen on the first floor at the rear of the house. It is believed these two children were in a rear upstairs bedroom and they apparently fell when the second floor collapsed.

The dwelling housed two families. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mayhew and their six children managed to escape from their half of the house.

Carol Buskirk, 12, sister of the victims, told Deputy Sheriff William E. Orr that she was sitting on the front porch when the blaze was discovered.

She and another sister, Wilda, 7, managed to get Terry from the house but were unable to get to the children upstairs because of the fire and smoke.

The fire is believed to have started in the kitchen of the Buskirk side of the house and the stairs leading to the second floor were located off the kitchen.

The fire began at approximately 10:15 p.m. and firemen from Shaft, Clarysville, Midland and Lonaconing responded. They were forced to haul water in tank trucks from a nearby creek.

Authorities think the blaze started in a gas stove in the kitchen.

Dr. W. O. McLean, Frostburg, deputy medical examiner, was called to the scene and Miners Hospital was alerted.

State Police who assisted at the scene were Sgt. Harry A. Bosley, Tfc. Robert C. Dishong, Trooper T. E. McConnell and Trooper Leonard F. Glenn.

Traffic was backed up at the scene for over a mile and State Police kept a lane open for the fire trucks and emergency vehicles.

Firemen were still on the scene at 2 a. m. but traffic had started to move about 1 a. m.

Travelers Aid Unit Admitted To United Fund

31 Agencies Now Covered By CUF

William E. Crooks, Amcelle plant manager of the Celanese Fibers Company and president of County United Fund, has announced that the National Travelers Aid Association has been admitted to the CUF "family" of federated agencies.

The association was admitted, Mr. Crooks said, after submitting evidence that it had given assistance to more than 245 residents of Allegany and Mineral counties during the past year. Following the recent admission of the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund for Cancer Research, there are now 31 CUF agencies.

Subsequent to approval by the CUF admissions and executive committees, Travelers Aid was admitted after signing a contract to abide by the rules and regulations of the United Fund. A budget request by Travelers Aid for $209 for 1962 is being considered by the CUF allocations committee.

According to its stated aims, Travelers Aid offers service to people who are in difficulty while moving to better their social or economic conditions; are in flight from intolerable situations and social maladjustments; express inner conflict by way of movement; or have developed problems as a result of having moved.

It also helps those who contemplate movement for themselves or for others in the family and need help with a social problem involved; those who encounter difficulties while traveling, or upon arrival at destination; those who because of age or handicap need service and some measure of protection.

Finally, the agency assists those incapable of self-determination, such as the mentally ill or retarded, and those who are concerned about a member of the family who is in trouble in another community.

Travelers Aid also assists in the operation of USO, one of the most popular CUF agencies, which supports the needs of more than 2,000 area GIs while they are away from home.

Other agencies assisting in the operation of USO are the Salvation Army, National Catholic Community Service, National Jewish Welfare Board, Young Men's Christian Association, and Young Women's Christian Association.

Relocation Of Water Line Begins

A backhoe is used to dig the first trench for the relocation of one of the city's two 36-inch water transmission mains. The first sections of pipe needed for the relocation arrived at the site on Long Hill yesterday and the Orrie R. Sensabaugh contracting firm began work immediately. The firm will lay some 2,257 feet of the water line which must be relocated, just outside the city line, in connection with a Route 40 improvement project. The pipe being used for the line is made of reinforced concrete with a steel core. The line is one of two which bring water from the Lake Gordon filtration plant to the Fort Hill reservoir.

Local Boy, 7, Struck By Car, Said 'Critical'

Steven Clem In Memorial Hospital

A local youngster was critically injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile on Columbia Street.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital was Steven Clem, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Clem, 252 Columbia Street.

The hospital said the young boy sustained internal injuries and abrasions and lacerations of his body. He was still on the "critical" list late last night.

City Police said the youngster ran down a bank at Columbia Street School into the path of a car operated by Charles E. Lashley, 43, of 94 East Main Street, Frostburg.

The accident occurred shortly before 4 o'clock and was investigated by Officer Joseph Harvey.

No charges have been placed against the driver pending the outcome of the boy's injuries, police said.

Both Sides Dissatisfied By Ruling

Apparently neither side was satisfied by a decision of State Workmen's Compensation Commission involving Frank E. Hilliker, 53, of 422 North Mechanic Street, a janitor for the State Health Department in the Union Street County Building.

Both sides filed appeals in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The State Department of Health, his employer, and the State Accident Fund, the insurer, through Attorney Edgar L. Smith, appealed the decision.

The employer and insurer contend that Mr. Hilliker was not permanently totally disabled as a result of the injury he received on March 16, 1960. They further contend that 50 per cent of the disability was not reasonably attributable to the injury as the Workmen's Compensation Commission ruled.

On the other hand, Mr. Hilliker, through Attorney Simon F. Reilly, argues that considerably more than 50 per cent of his disability was attributable to his injury of March 16, 1960.

Mr. Hilliker was using a wheelbarrow to move coal in the Union Street Building basement on March 16, 1960. The wheelbarrow tipped over when it struck a piece of coal, and fell on the janitor's back.

The claimant, in decisions of June 12 and June 19, was awarded a total of $10,000 in compensation at the rate of $37.08 a week.

Bedford Man Being Held In Fatal Shooting

Charles Allen, 48, Faces Charges

Charles (Heeter) Allen, 48, Bedford, Pa., is being held in Bedford County Jail in the fatal shooting of his nephew, Kenneth (Jack) Allen, 30, also of Bedford.

Allen, who was shot July 3 at his uncle's home, died late Tuesday night in Bedford County Memorial Hospital, where he had been a patient since the shooting.

Deputy Coroner Ralph J. Mickle said death was due to complications of a gunshot wound received July 3.

Authorities said Allen was wounded with a high-powered hunting rifle. A preliminary investigation revealed the shooting occurred at 3 p. m. at the uncle's home.

The victim, who was married and the father of two children, was employed as an elevator operator and bell man at a Bedford hotel.

The body is at the Geisel Funeral Home in Bedford.

Intra-City Playground Picnic Set Today At Park

Playground leaders yesterday were assigned to the various activities scheduled to take place at the annual Intra-City Picnic today at Constitution Park.

The outing, sponsored by the City Recreation Department and directed by Mrs. Eva Hogan, general playground supervisor, will get under way at 10 a. m. and continue until 3 p. m.

The annual Pigtail League softball game is scheduled for 10:30 a. m. The 1960 city champion of North End playground will play The Runnerettes, a team composed of girls from Columbia Street, Pine Avenue, Centre Street and Penn Ave. William Brown, Don Helker and Gary Thompson will be in charge of the game and Pat Kenney will be umpire.

Games directors are Nancy Clise, Pat King, Bonnie McClellan and Donnie Stine, ages 6, 7 and 8 years; Barbara Miller, Ronna Grim, Mary Jane Howe and Flourette Barger, intermediates; Jean Beckward, Maxine Zerbach and Marian Wilson, teen-age, and Vera Twigg, Sylvia Huff and Gelia Puffenberger, treasure hunt.

At 12:30 swimming activity will be held at the park pool with George Strachan in charge.

Children will bring their own picnic lunches, but must arrange for their own transportation or make arrangements at the individual playgrounds for getting to and from the picnic.

Prizes will be awarded to winners of all games.

State Provides Four Counties With $1,576

Checks totaling $1,576.10 have been distributed to the county commissioners of four Western Maryland counties by State Forester H. C. Buckingham.

These checks represent 15 per cent of the state's income from the state forests, state parks and recreation areas for the quarter from January 1 through March 31.

District Forester R. Thomas Thayer Jr. delivered the largest check, $1,299.69 to the Garrett County commissioners. This was for revenue from Savage River, Swallow Falls and Potomac state forests and from Deep Creek Lake State Park during the first quarter of 1961.

Allegany County gets the second largest check, $215.21 from revenue from the Green Ridge State Forest and Dan's Mountain Recreation Area.

Washington County's check, for $33.30, covers 15 per cent of the revenue from Fort Frederick and Washington Monument state parks. Frederick County received only $27.90 for 15 per cent of the revenue from Gambrill, Cunningham Falls and Gathland state parks.

In letters to the county commissioners, Mr. Buckingham also emphasized that the respective counties also benefitted from such activities as picnics, hiking and other recreational facilities such as swimming on the state-owned properties.

Letter Cites Sewage Needs For LaVale

A copy of a letter to Playford Aldridge, chairman of the Allegany County Sanitary Commission, emphasizing problems connected with the sewage condition prevailing in LaVale, has been received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The letter was written by J. B. Dowling, supervising sanitarian for the Health Department here.

Mr. Dowling pointed out that he had received a letter late in July from A. H. Gehauf, operator of the Gay Point Motel and Restaurant in LaVale. Mr. Gehauf wrote that he would like to build 15 additional motel units there at a cost of about $75,000.

However, Mr. Gehauf questions whether the additional motel units will meet with public acceptance in view of the odors coming from Braddock Run and the drainage ditch in that area.

Mr. Gehauf expressed a hope that this condition can be corrected through proper cooperation.

The sanitarian pointed to this letter as a reason why he feels the County Sanitary Commission, the county commissioners and the LaVale Sanitary Commission should work together to solve the sewage problem there.

C Of C Plans Course In Politics Here

About 25 local industrial and business leaders will attend a meeting today at the Fort Cumberland Hotel to plan an expansion of the Chamber of Commerce's sponsorship of an "action course in practical politics."

C. M. Sanner, president, said the chamber sponsored the initial course last year and one other course has been completed. He said it is felt that business men need to take more interest in politics at all levels and that expansion of this operation is neccessary.

Walter Dyck, manager of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, will act as chairman of today's meeting. J. Frank Mellon, district manager of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, will be present to explain the program and to answer questions.

Mr. Sanner said this program is a non-partisan activity, and he hopes many groups will take advantage of it to sponsor the course, which consists of nine two-hour sessions. He said the chamber will be glad to order necessary materials and give any help required to any group that wants to participate.

Breakneck 4-H Boys Hold Annual Picnic

The regular meeting and annual picnic of the Breakneck Boys 4-H Club was held at the home of C. T. Robeson, Flintstone. Ernest Messick presided.

Alonzo Robeson gave a talk on how to build a good farm pond and the club discussed fair booths, the County 4-H Camp Algawa, and other items.

Games were played and refreshments were served.

Others attending were Martin M. Gordon, leader; Wesley Gordon, Carl Robinette, Larry Robinette, George Raines, Eldon Simpson, Gary Browning, Lee Robinette and Roy Simpson. Donald Valuzza was a guest.

Cresaptown Boy Bitten By Snake Is Hospitalized

Harold Pfister, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pfister, Cresaptown, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon after he was bitten on the arm by a snake.

The hospital said youngster was in the barn at his home when he was bitten on the right elbow by the snake. He was reported in "satisfactory" condition.

It was not determined just what type of snake bit the youth, but it is believed it was a copperhead.

Central Would Seek Freight Rate Parity

By JACK ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York Central vice president said Wednesday that if his company gets authority to control the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, it will continue to advocate railroad rate parity for all the North Atlantic ports on export-import freight traffic.

The official, Arthur E. Baylis, was testifying at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on rival bids by Central and the Chesapeake & Ohio to control B&O. He restated Central's traditional position on this frequently explosive issue in response to questions by a representative of the Maryland Port Authority.

Under long-standing ICC orders, New York and Boston, now served by Central, have higher rail rates on foreign freight as compared with the same traffic moving in and out of Philadelphia, Baltimore and Hampton Roads, Va.

Donald Macleay, attorney for the Maryland authority, brought up the rate issue in cross-examining Baylis on policies of a possible Central-B&O combine. He asked:

"If Central controls B&O and so gets access to Baltimore, would you still persist in eliminating the port differentials?"

"We would," Baylis replied. "This is not a matter of port competition. What we want to do is to improve the whole industrial climate of the North Atlantic area. We are looking for the survival of a whole area."

Macleay later said Central's position is that the competition should not be between the various North Atlantic ports, but rather between this port group and rival ports on the South Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico.

Local Marine Unit To Get Field Training

Cumberland's 43d Rifle Company, U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, will leave Saturday for its annual two weeks of field training at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Major Billy C. Menges, commanding officer of the unit, said the highlight of this summer's training will be a combined air-ground exercise on the brigade level.

Over 20 Marine Reserve units from the eastern part of the country will take part in this operation, Major Menges said.

All phases of modern warfare, including vertical envelopment with helicopters of the Second Marine Air Wing will be tested during this operation.

Other training to be received by the 43d Rifle Company includes live firing of all infantry weapons, anti-tank tactics, a ceremonial twilight parade, and use of Combat Village, where emphasis is placed on the proper methods used by individuals and on the coordination within small units required to fight in towns.

The unit will return to Cumberland on July 29. Transportation will be provided by the Fourth Truck Company, USMCR, Erie, Pa.

Magazine Shows Mayor Keech, Sewage Plant

Pictures of Mayor J. Edwin Keech and Cumberland's sewage treatment plant are included in the July County Officer, the official monthly publication of the National Association of County Officials.

"Our water clean-up brought us new industry and jobs," Mayor Keech said. The account explains that Cumberland built a new sewage treatment plant which will take care of all home and factory wastes even with growth expected in the next 10 years.

The sewage treatment plant was cited as one reason why the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant came to the Cumberland area.

Other pictures in the magazine show waste treatment plants on the North Platte River, on the Walnut River in Kansas, at Clearwater and Coral Gables, Fla.

Kristi Kight and Raymond Beall, members of a Red Cross advance beginners swim class, receive instructions from Mrs. Serena Winer during lessons held at Shrine Country Club pool. Classes in various stages of swimming are being conducted at area pools by the Red Cross as part of its summer water safety program.

Alert Calls 60 Volunteers

About 60 volunteer firemen representing six companies in the Frostburg area participated in a two-hour Civil Defense alert last night, according to Joseph Durst, Frostburg fire chief and Civil Defense coordinator.

Mr. Durst said the alert was sounded at 6:40 p.m. and volunteer firemen from Lonaconing, Shaft, Clarysville, Frostburg, Mt. Savage and Midland responded to Midland. The problem was to supply water by tankers from a point two miles away to Midland. The six trucks worked in relays to provide the water.

The alert ended about 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Durst was assisted in directing the operation by Harry Devlin, fire chief of Midland.

Man Gets Permit For LaVale House

Joseph C. McCreary, Main Street, LaVale, yesterday obtained a building permit from James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, to build a $13,000 brick dwelling in Election District 29 at LaVale.

The house will be 26 by 40 feet in size, according to the permit.

Another recent LaVale permit was issued to Eugene Lutz, 1207 LaVale Avenue, for a $5,000 addition to his house, located on Lots 44, 45 and 46 on LaVale Avenue. The three-room frame addition will be 20 by 40 feet in size.

Counties Get Funds For Local Road Projects

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eleven Maryland counties were named by the State Roads Commission Wednesday for participating in a program to finance county road construction and repair projects through a $3,292,000 State bond issue.

The SRC called for bids on the bonds Aug. 9, and said counties would receive funds for local projects as soon as the issue has been sold.

The bond issue will be repaid from the counties' share of gasoline tax revenues and from motor vehicle revenue funds.

Counties participating in the program, and the amounts they are eligible to receive, include Frederick, $466,000; Garrett, $30,000; Montgomery, $321,000, and Washington, $321,000.
